MERAMEC TRUST CO. CLOSED; IN HANDS OF COMMISSIONER

Notice on Door Announces Temporary Suspension of Bank With Deposits of About $400,000.

CAPITAL STOCK IS DECLARED IMPAIRED

Big Loan Blamed by Officer, Who Expresses Belief All of 5000 Depositors Will Be Paid in Full.

The Meramec Trust Co., 2224 Meramec street, whose capital stock is $50,000 and deposits about $400,000, did not open for business today and a notice was posted on the door announcing that the company was in the hands of the State Banking Commissioner, C. F. Enright.

A decision to turn the bank over to Enright was reached at a meeting between Enright and the directors and officers of the bank beginning last night and ending at midnight, when, in the presence of the directors, Claude A. Eaton and Wilson W. Selbert, State bank examiners, made their official report. They had been going over the books since Thursday.

Put in Commissioner's Hands. The officers of the trust company are President, F. C. Freiburg, 948 King's Highway Park, an auditor for the Frisco Railroad; vice presidents, William C. McNamee, 6832 Virginia avenue, a lawyer, and Emil Schray, 4101 Pennsylvania avenue, a florist; secretary and treasurer, J. G. Lowe Jr., 6114 Westminster place.

B. E. Grace, of 2615 Lafayette avenue, was assistant secretary and treasurer until about a week ago, when he announced he had resigned and would go to China to engage in business there.

Secretary and Treasurer Lowe today told a Post-Dispatch reporter of last night's meeting of the directors and bank examiners, and said it was decided to put the bank in Enright's hands for 10 days. Enright, he said, came here Thursday and put Eaton and Selbert to work on the books.

Lowe said the reason for temporarily closing the bank was that Commissioner Enright declared the capital stock had been impaired. The amount of the impairment was definitely stated, Lowe said, but he did not care to make it public at this time. He expressed the belief that depositors would be paid in full.

Within the 10 days closing period, Lowe said, it will be necessary for the bank directors and officers to obtain money to make up the alleged impairment of the capital stock.

President Freiburg said the direct reason for closing the bank was a loan which the bank had made to a business concern having large property holdings. This loan, he said, exceeded the $7500 maximum which a trust company of the Meramec capitalization is legally permitted to make to a single borrower, but the loan was made because it was considered good and it was thought it would be highly profitable to the bank.

Bank Relief From Borrowers. Freiburg said negotiations were under way to have this borrower put up deeds and other securities with the trust company today to make good the impairment of the capital. H. F. Reiss, of 2114 Virginia avenue, a lumber dealer, formerly was president of the bank. He said that he sold out his interest to Freiburg July 1 last and that the bank was in "good condition" at that time. He did not know its present condition.

It said in the neighborhood that one of the largest depositors was A. Henrich, a grocer at Louisiana avenue and Meramec street, with about $1100 deposited, and that St. Anthony's (Monks) Church had on deposit its St. Vincent de Paul charity fund, amounting to about $800.

F. N. Luepker, of 4217 Virginia avenue, holder of about 20 shares in the bank, said the company had an authorized capital of $100,000, but only $50,000 of the stock had been issued. Reports, he said, showed it had a surplus of about $110,000.

The bank was open 1 about six years ago and has paid but one dividend. This was 1 per cent, in December, 1917. Luepker said the bank had about 5000 depositors.

Held Up Last June. It will be remembered that a spectacular and tragic attempt to rob the Meramec Trust Co. was made June 12 last by four men who drove up in an automobile. Three of the men held up Lowe and a messenger and fled with a valise containing $25,000 in cash and Liberty bonds. In the flight they dropped the valise and its contents and they were recovered. The bank lost nothing. When two of the robbers were cornered they killed one policeman and fatally wounded another.

The Meramec Trust Co. is not a member of the Clearing House Association. Its checks are cleared through the Federal Reserve Bank.

BELGIAN ROYALTY TAKES PICTURES OF NIAGARA FALLS

"All Right, King, You're Ready," Attendant Says Just Before

By the Associated Press. NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Oct. 6.—King Albert and Queen Elizabeth of Belgium and the Crown Prince arrived here at 9 o'clock this morning and half an hour later were viewing the wonders of the great cataract.

At the Echota station, where the royal party left the train, Mrs. H. A. Stone held up her 12 weeks' old baby, and King Albert kissed it. From the station their majesties were taken at once to the falls' show places. After crossing Goat Island bridge and getting their first view of the American side of the falls, the party proceeded to the Cave of the Winds.

Queen Elizabeth, clad in a raincoat and waterproof hat, green veil and gray dress, was much interested in the panorama and frequently used her camera to snap views. The Crown Prince also took a number of pictures.

King Albert walked on ahead unattended, and was first to arrive at the Cave of the Winds landing. He at once began to don oil skins preparatory to a journey on foot down the maze of stairs that lead to the cave beneath the American falls.

"All right, King, you're ready," said the attendant, with fine regard to the ceremony that usually attends royalty.

BAND AT LEGION MEETING KNOWS NO PATRIOTIC PIECES

Jazz Music Played at Opening of State Convention at Jefferson City.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 6.—The first convention of the American Legion of Missouri opened here today, with about 100 delegates present. Others are expected on the noon train.

Adjutant General Harvey C. Clark opened the meeting. Dr. R. M. Talbert, pastor of the Christian Church in Jefferson City, and a Y. M. C. A. worker in France, led the devotional exercises. The Rev. J. E. McGowan, pastor of the M. E. Church here, offered prayer.

A jazz orchestra played several jazz pieces. Gen. Clark sent a messenger to the orchestra leader and demanded that he play a patriotic selection. The leader said the orchestra did not know any patriotic pieces.

A political fight is in prospect over the selection of a commander for the State organization. The Kansas City delegation will present a solid front in an effort to elect Sid Housh, an enlisted man, who served in the 130th Machine Gun Battalion. It is believed the St. Louis delegation will support Col. Dwight F. Davis or some other St. Louisan.

FORMER HEAD OF FIRM HERE HELD ON FRAUD CHARGE

Charles F. Beck, Brought From Milwaukee, Sold Damaged and Unclaimed Freight.

ARREST OF OTHERS EXPECTED SOON

Alleged Swindle, Involving "More or Less Than $30,000" in Government Funds, Is Disclosed.

Charles F. Beck, who was head of the C. F. Beck Salvage Co., 915-13 North Sixth street, until it ceased business a short time ago, was brought to St. Louis from Milwaukee Saturday and today was charged in a warrant with embezzlement of public funds, "more or less than $30,000." He was released on a $10,000 bond.

His business was the sale of unclaimed or damaged railroad freight and it is stated by Federal officials that his arrest will be followed by the arrest of several other railroad officials on charges of conspiracy to defraud the Federal Government.

It also was stated that the amount, although named in the warrant as $30,000, likely will prove to involve about $20,000.

The conspiracy had to do largely with unclaimed and damaged automobiles. The method, as related in the United States District Attorney's office, was as follows:

Railroad claim agents or freight agents would send damaged automobiles valued from $2000 to $5000 to Beck to be sold. Beck would repair them, usually at small cost, and then sell the automobiles to the agent who sent them to him, at a price very small in comparison to the market value, home as low as $100. Beck would collect a commission of 10 per cent from the railroad for making the sale.

Beck became aware of the investigation about two months ago. He is said to have made assignment of $35,000 in cash and his business, 705 Market street, will be discontinued, pursuant to an order from the National Federal Director at Washington. Failure of Congress to approve an appropriation for continuance of the Government free employment service is responsible for closing the office. Other offices in Missouri and throughout the country were closed Thursday.

It is stated that the St. Louis bureau placed 30,000 men at an average cost of 21 cents and it was opened in January, 1918.

The order does not affect the Demobilization Bureau for Soldiers, Sailors and Marines, 110 North Ninth street, which is maintained by local organizations. This work will be continued at least until Jan. 1.

IMPROVEMENT OF PRESIDENT CONTINUES, THREE DOCTORS SAY, AFTER CONSULTATION

Mr. Wilson Has "Satisfactory" Night; Chafing Somewhat Under Rule of Absolute Rest.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—A bulletin issued at 11 a. m. today and signed by Rear Admiral Grayson, President Wilson's physician; Rear Admiral Stitt, head of the Naval Medical School here, and Dr. Sterling Ruffin of this city, said:

"White House, Oct. 6, 11 a. m.—The improvement in the President's condition noted yesterday has continued. He had a satisfactory night.

"GRAYSON, RUFFIN, STITT." This was the first time Doctors Stitt and Ruffin, who have been assisting Dr. Grayson, have signed the bulletin, which was issued after a consultation between the doctors.

Mr. Wilson was described yesterday as chafing somewhat because he was not permitted to give any attention to official matters, but Dr. Grayson said that, on the whole, he was proving a good patient.

Desires to Write Message. Amplifying the bulletin, Dr. Grayson said there was a slight improvement in the President's condition and that he again insisted upon attending to public matters he considered pressing. The President particularly desired to write a message to the industrial conference to be read at the opening session today.

Dr. Grayson said he was not yet ready for the President to do any work and would continue to insist that he have absolute quiet and rest and keep his mind away from official matters. The physician fears that any excessive activity on the part of the President might cause a reaction.

While a spirit of optimism pervades the White House today because of the continued improvement in the President's condition, Dr. Grayson said he did not want to be too optimistic and would continue to watch his patient carefully.

LIST OF GIFTS WILSON RECEIVED IN EUROPE

Secretary Tumulty Makes Them Public at "Express Direction of President and Mrs. Wilson."

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Acting upon the "express direction of the President and Mrs. Wilson," Secretary Tumulty today made public a statement containing a list of presents received by them while in Europe.

Tumulty's statement follows: "While on his Western trip the President's attention was called to the resolution of Representative Roderberg of Illinois, and the statements of Senators Penrose and Sherman in regard to gifts received by the President and Mrs. Wilson while they were in Europe.

"Senator Sherman indicated the basis of the various stories touching this matter when he said that cloakroom gossip laid the values of these gifts at half a million dollars. Senator Penrose said he had been informed that the presidential party brought back to this country presents from crowned heads and foreign Governments amounting to several million dollars.

"Here are the facts: "Outside of a considerable number of small gifts, such as books, walking sticks, an old silver dish found in the ruins of Louvain, war souvenirs made by sailors or out of war material, and numerous medals struck off in his honor, the following are the only important gifts received by the President in Europe:

England: Photograph of King and Queen of England; a book relating to Windsor Castle; the freedom of the city of London, presented in a gold casket, by the Lord Mayor at Guild Hall.

"In Italy: A water color picture on bronze easel, presented by the Queen of Italy; a bronze figure presented at the capitol in Rome (a gift from the people); a figure of Italia Victoria sent to the train at Genoa, either by a school or by the citizens of Genoa; a set of books from the citizens of Genoa; a mosaic, presented by the Pope.

"In France: A bronze figure, presented by a body of students. The President also received numerous other honorary degrees from nearly 11 of the countries of Europe and many resolutions of respect and gratitude.

Prepared to Ask for Them. "Knowing that there is a constitutional inhibition against the President receiving gifts from foreign rulers or states, the President, after consulting the Secretary of State, was preparing a list of these presents and intended to ask permission of Congress to retain them, just before he started on his Western trip.

In addition to the gifts received by the President, the following were presented to Mrs. Wilson while she was in Europe: "In France—A pin of Parisian enamel with tiny diamond chips, presented in Hotel de Ville by the City of Paris; linen hand-embroidered lunch set (small cloth and doornapkins) in a case, presented through Mme. Polanco and Mme.

CYNICISM IN AIR AS LABOR AND CAPITAL BEGIN CONFERENCE

Defiant Employers and Radical Class Leaders Doubt Whether Industrial Meeting Will Solve Problems.

SOME DEFINITE PLAN FOR PEACE ASSURED

Men Chosen as Delegates Will Not Evade Issue—Willingness to Agree Is Apparent.

By DAVID LAWRENCE. A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch. (Copyright, 1919.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Capital and labor, hitherto antagonistic, tried today to become friends—possibly partners. Certain that industrial war and chaos was coming, President Wilson called employer and employee to conference. Discussion, he thinks, can prevent wars between classes as well as between nations. The President himself is too ill to attend the conference, but it was his intention anyway only to open the meeting and leave the representatives to work out their own plans and problems.

Mr. Wilson's opening address and presence, too, would have been inspiration, but the compulsion behind the big conference is even greater than any words that could fall from Mr. Wilson's lips or pen. The problem is concrete—industrial unrest, spreading, reaching out, immobilizing the life of the nation. It is a life with the germs of uncertainty.

Cynicism as well as doubt is to be found in the atmosphere as the conference begins. There will be a lot of talk, much abstract, much general, and a little done—so think many who do not believe in discussing matters with their employees. And resting upon the labor leaders from the outside comes another cynicism and doubt, based on a different character. It is the cynicism of the radicals who look upon Samuel Gompers and his crowd as bourgeois, ultra-conservatives and compromisers, and who regard direct action, the method of the Soviet, as the only means to industrial emancipation.

Extremists on Both Sides. Outside the doors of the big labor conference—momentous in the history of the critical days of reconstruction—stalked the bogey of Bolshevism. "If we don't get together the masses will lose confidence in both us—leaders of capital and so-called leaders of labor," is the sentiment of one business man. "And if we let these labor people take an inch, they'll take a mile," is the viewpoint of the extremists on the employers' side. But representing the public are certain men, identified with big business, but not tinged with a certain amount of the Wilsonian spirit of conciliation, who will be a vital factor in the settlements that issue out of the conference.

Take only a few of them as examples. There is Clay McComb of California, who has had remarkable experience in conciliating labor and capital on the Pacific Coast—a big-hearted, broad-gauged citizen with as progressive a viewpoint as the West has, who is doing a great deal. Then there is Bernard M. Baruch, who has spent most of his life in the atmosphere of Wall street making money, but of whom it is said nowadays that "when he came to Washington, he found his mind gave up his seat in the Stock Exchange and dedicated his life to public service. He handled the War Industries Board during the war, which had much to do with keeping labor satisfied.

Some Program Assured. H. B. Endicott, shoe manufacturer, who was one of the first to proclaim the eight-hour day, has had remarkable success as an arbitrator between capital and labor in Massachusetts. E. T. Meredith of Iowa is another business man of prominence who believes in the co-operative idea as between employer and employee. Thomas D. Jones of Chicago, a personal friend of Mr. Wilson and a dominant figure in the zinc industry, is imbued with the Wilson idea of bringing about compromises in industrial troubles. Then the Socialist writings of John Spargo and Charles Edward Russell are well known.

Men like these will not permit the labor conference to wind up after a prolonged debate in merely a majority and minority report or a lack of specific recommendations altogether. They are not extreme radicals, any of them—they will in the end like compromising legislators, get as much as they can.

Delegates Feel Responsibility. They will sacrifice some things to get unanimous agreement and nation-wide support. They will not attempt too much in the beginning. But they will endeavor to get agreement on certain fundamentals affecting the relations of employer and employee.

FRANCE MAY HONOR UNKNOWN SOLDIER DEAD IN PANTHEON

Deputies Consider Proposal to Transfer 10 Bodies From Graves on Battlefield.

SPECIAL Cable to the Post-Dispatch. PARIS, Oct. 6.—One project before the Chamber of Deputies, which is eliciting general approval, is to take from a grave on a French hillside one of the heroes of the war whose only monument is a little cross, marked "Unknown," and place the body in the Pantheon. Deputy Paisant is the author of this idea, which has received the endorsement of Gen. Fayolle and many other leaders. On the tomb in the Pantheon would be inscribed simply the words, "The Dead," and the monument would take its place beside the tombs of Victor Hugo and Voltaire. To Paisant's idea has been added the suggestion to entomb the remains of 10 soldiers rather than one, thus honoring many battlefields.

"There are 400,000 families," says the author of this suggestion, "who see All-Saints' day draw near, not knowing where to place their wreath, and knowing only on what battlefield he whom they mourn has died. Would it not be for these a consolation, to think when contemplating this monument, simply, 'Perhaps it is he who lies there.'"

"Yes," replied the former artist, "I have forgotten it. I have not played a piano for two years and three months. I do not regret it."

Then he added a little of pride: "I am happy to have sacrificed to the cause of my country what I held most dear."

PADEREWSKI SO BUSY HE SAYS HE HAS FORGOTTEN HIS MUSIC

President of Poland and Pianist Declares He Is Happy to Make Such a Sacrifice for His Country.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Interviewed in the nation's industrial situation brought to a point regarded as critical because of increasing controversies between capital and organized labor, centered here today, where representatives of the three elements in national life—capital, labor and the public—were to sit in conference, their aim, as expressed in the words of President Wilson when he issued the call for the meeting, will be to arrive at "some common ground of agreement and action with regard to the future conduct of industry."

Representatives of all the railroad workers' unions, including the four big brotherhoods, will participate in the conference. Timothy Shea of the firemen announced after a conference of the union heads. The railroad men accepted the conference proposal of President Wilson that the four brotherhoods have one delegate each and the 14 unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor be represented through the federation's delegates. Bert M. Jewish, acting president of the railway employees' department of the federation, will participate as a delegate for the public.

CARLOAD OF LONGHORNS FREED 32 MILES OUT OF ST. LOUIS

A carload of longhorn Texas steers bound for the National Stockyards was shunted for watering onto a side track at St. Louis last week. The water supply at St. Louis is Fox Creek, a mile from the station.

The lone agent contemplated the situation for awhile, and decided rather than carry water for 33 thirsty steers, it would be easier to unload them and drive them to the creek.

When the steers were liberated they scampered off in all directions, some even crossing the Frisco bridge over Fox Creek and not stopping to drink. The agent called the aid of a section gang and after a day's hard work managed to get 11 of the steers back into the car.

A few days later a claim agent of the railroad rode to Alton with a larrikin and after a chase of another day rounded up four more of the frolicsome longhorns, leaving 10 still at liberty.

VEILED PROPHET DRAWS MANY VISITORS TO VIEW PAGEANT

Many visitors are arriving in the city for the first appearance tomorrow of the Veiled Prophet and his retinue. Residents of the city are showing an unusual interest in the Prophet's pageant.

Reservations have been made at downtown hotels and cafes by parties which will view the pageant from the windows of their reserved spaces after dinner. The parade, which will start west from Twenty-second and Walnut streets at 6:48 p. m., will be in the downtown district, east of eighteenth street, from approximately 8:24 to 9:25 p. m. The Prophet's entry into the ball, in the Coliseum, will take place shortly before 10.

GIRLS ENTICE ITALIAN REGULARS TO JOIN D'ANNUNZIO'S FORCES

By the Associated Press. FLORENCE, Friday, Oct. 3.—Legions of Flame girls are enticing soldiers to desert from the ranks of Italian army forces stationed at Abbazia and other points on the armistice line in order to increase Gabriele d'Annunzio's army of occupation.

The girls leave Florence hidden in motor trucks and are driven over a circuitous route in order to evade the watchfulness of the carabinieri who are stationed between the regular Italian army and d'Annunzio's forces. When they leave the motor trucks at various posts, the girls beguile work quickly by talking to soldiers on the street and soldiers in turn convey word to the comrades. Sometimes through this method entire battalions have gone over to the Flame army, among them one battalion of bersaglieri and another of machine gunners.

GREAT INDUSTRIAL CONFERENCE IS CONVENED TODAY AT WASHINGTON

Secretary Wilson Calls Meeting of Capital, Labor and Public to Order in the Pan-American Building and Organization First Will Be Perfected.

LANE MENTIONED FOR CHAIRMANSHIP

President's Compromise Proposal for Representation of Railroad Workers Accepted by Union Heads After Conference.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Interest in the nation's industrial situation brought to a point regarded as critical because of increasing controversies between capital and organized labor, centered here today, where representatives of the three elements in national life—capital, labor and the public—were to sit in conference, their aim, as expressed in the words of President Wilson when he issued the call for the meeting, will be to arrive at "some common ground of agreement and action with regard to the future conduct of industry."

Representatives of all the railroad workers' unions, including the four big brotherhoods, will participate in the conference. Timothy Shea of the firemen announced after a conference of the union heads. The railroad men accepted the conference proposal of President Wilson that the four brotherhoods have one delegate each and the 14 unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor be represented through the federation's delegates. Bert M. Jewish, acting president of the railway employees' department of the federation, will participate as a delegate for the public.

Final details of arrangements for the conference were completed last night when Secretary of Labor Wilson, Attorney-General Palmer and Bernard Baruch, the last named one of the public's representatives, conferred with Secretary Tumulty.

The conference, which will be held in the Pan-American building, will be opened at 2:30 o'clock. Secretary Wilson, acting for President Wilson, will call the meeting to order.

Who the permanent chairman will be had not been settled, but Secretary Lane, one of the first to suggest such a conference, was among those named.

With the exception of the locomotive engineers, the railroad brotherhoods will be represented by their chiefs. H. E. Wills of the engineers' legislative committee will be present in the place of President Warren A. Stone.

The American Federation of Labor delegates to the conference were second in his forenoon to discuss procedure. Thirteen of the 15 named by President Gompers were present. Those absent were Frank Duffy and John L. Lewis of Indianapolis, who have declined to serve.

Appointments for Miss Lillian Wald of New York, in place of Mrs. Carter, and other engagements prevented her attendance, was announced by Secretary Wilson. Miss Wald will be one of the delegates representing the public.

The length of the conference is a matter of uncertainty and will depend on the progress made by the delegates in formulating a program to guide industry until normal conditions are restored.

Hundred Plans Offered. Matters to be taken up at the opening session, in addition to the choice of a permanent chairman and preliminary organization, probably will be the selection of a number of committees.

The Department of Labor has received and will lay before the conference more than 100 proposals, many from well-known students of industrial relations, suggesting plans to bring about closer co-operation between capital and labor. One of these is said to be from Dr. Charles W. Eliot, former president of Harvard University, outlining his profit-sharing scheme.

Norway Referendum on Liquor. By the Associated Press. CHRISTIANIA, Sept. 6.—A plebiscite to determine the question of a national prohibition of alcohol in Norway was begun today throughout the country. During the war, measures limiting the manufacture of beer, spirits and other alcoholic drinks on account of the shortage of grain have been in effect.

LEAGUE ENEMIES AVOID TRUTH, SAYS M'CUMBER

Republican Senator Denies That Britain and Colonies Would Outvote U. S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Denying that Great Britain and her colonies would have six votes in the league of nations to one for the United States, Senator McCumber, Republican, of North Dakota, charged in the Senate today that Senators advocating the amendment by Senator Johnson, Republican, of California, proposing to limit the voting power of the British colonies were fanning popular prejudice with an unfounded appeal.

"Senators who in private conversation would never dream of attempting to deceive one another," said Senator McCumber, "seem unable to resist the temptation to take advantage of a prejudice created by the deception and, with the least avoidance of the real and full truth, to fanning another prejudice."

As a substitute for the Johnson amendment, Senator McCumber introduced his proposed reservation to exclude British colonies from participating in the league in disputes involving the mother country or each other.

Misstatement of Facts.

"Almost every argument made on the floor of the Senate," said Senator McCumber, "and every one without exception made to the public by Senators opposed to any league of nations, has given the impression to the people of the world that the council of the assembly, as the case might be, is a sort of court or tribunal that decides the disputes between nations, and it is because of these misstatements of the facts and the misapprehension of many of our people arising therefrom, that the ground is made fertile for the development of about all the animosities towards this league and especially towards the claimed voting power of Great Britain."

"I wish the public could just once fully understand, first, that not one case of dispute out of a hundred would ever go to the council or assembly; second, that even if all other efforts provided for the settlement of disputes should fail, the only thing submitted to the council or assembly is the right to investigate and report the facts to the public."

Senator McCumber said the argument of Senator Johnson and other supporters of the Johnson amendment was "too absurd to be true," and asked why France, Italy and other nations did not raise objections to "putting their heads into the lion's mouth."

Real Facts About League.

The North Dakota Senator said the real facts regarding the league were:

"That neither the council nor assembly is a board of arbitration."

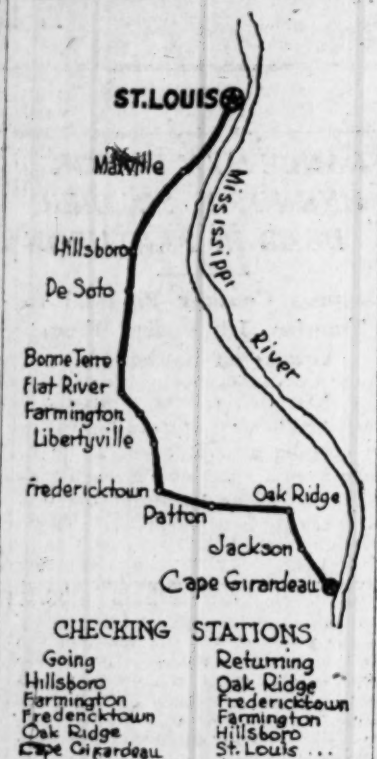

"That neither of them decides international disputes at all."

"That the only jurisdiction which the council or assembly have over a dispute between nations is the right to investigate and report what the true facts are, and make recommendations."

"That a dispute with a part of a nation or empire is a dispute with the whole."

"Great Britain cannot and will not control the vote of Canada," Senator McCumber said. "I would like to put this question straight to the American people: Has not Canada, a fully governing, independent dominion, earned by her sacrifices in blood and treasure through four years of this bloody war, a right to a seat in the assembly that would give her voice an effect equal to Haiti, Honduras, Liberia, Nicaragua."

BALLOONIST COLE LANDS IN TORONTO

Sends Word He Came Down Safely in Mountains 32
Miles From Railroad.

Capt. Ernest S. Cole, one of the pilots in the national championship balloon race, which started Wednesday evening from Meramec Park, landed in the mountains, 32 miles north of L'Amable, Ont., the nearest railroad station where news of the landing could be sent out. Telegrams from Capt. Cole and his aid, Lieut. Leo Ferrenbach, stating they had landed safe and were both well, were received today.

Capt. Paul J. McCullough and his aid, Bernard von Hoffmann, landed near Ferrie Township, Ontario, 40 miles north of Parry Sound, and walked three days to Wabamun, the nearest railroad station, which they reached Saturday.

The reports from these two pilots leave one of the original 10 starters to be heard from. Capt. Carl W. Dammann of St. Louis, who was last reported flying over Lake Michigan, Thursday morning.

L'Amable is approximately 850 miles northeast of St. Louis, about 125 miles due east of Parry Sound, and Ferrie Township, about 325 miles from here.

Unless Capt. Dammann, who is still unheard from, reports a much greater distance, Ralph Upson of the Akron (O.) Aero Club, who landed in Quebec, about 1050 miles northeast of St. Louis, will have won the race.

The real contention will be for second place, which seems to have been won by Capt. H. E. Honeywell of the Kansas City Aero Club, who landed at Cardinal, Ont., approximately 900 miles from this city.

Two others, Capt. John S. McKibben and Warren Raser, landed in Canada, on Georgian Bay, a distance of about 750 miles.

EMPLOYERS TRY TO OPEN MORE PITTSBURGH STEEL PLANTS

Union Leaders Say Plans for Increasing Operation Will Not Be Successful.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 6.—An effort by employers to open additional plants in the Pittsburgh district today marked the beginning of the third week of the steel workers' strike. Representatives of the steel companies say that hundreds of men returned in the mills last week and they declare that sufficient workers will desert the strikers' ranks today to assure the reopening of plants which have been tied up by the walkout.

Union leaders were emphatic in their declarations that plans of the employers to start operations in the mills will fail.

Hundreds of police sheriffs, mill guards and deputy sheriffs, called by Director of Streets and Sewers Talbert.

The desire is that some definite plan be evolved for submission to the Board of Aldermen, the City Plan Commission, the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and the Mayor on a definite plan for the establishment of main traffic arteries in St. Louis will be made Thursday at a meeting aboard the city harbor boat, Erastus Wells, called by Director of Streets and Sewers Talbert.

FLORISSANT AVENUE TO MALLINCKRODT STREET FROM 60 TO 100 FEET

This is an extension of the Twelfth street widening plan to serve the extreme northwest portion of the city. The cost is estimated at $750,000, and involves the condemnation of property assessed at $384,893.

Extension of the southwest extremity of the Twelfth street widening project, by linking Gravois avenue with it, making Gravois a 100-foot roadway to Grand avenue. It now is 60 feet and is 100 feet beyond Grand avenue. This would extend the Twelfth street project to the extreme southwest portion of the city. With the second project, it would create a 100-foot roadway extending from the southwest to the northwest portions of the city by way of Twelfth street. The Gravois cost is estimated at $1,250,000, the property to be condemned being assessed at $623,000.

The King's Highway northwest plan, which would make a 100-foot roadway from King's highway and Birch road to Partidge avenue, Tracy road and Halls Ferry road, running into Broadway at Riverside drive. The estimated cost is $150,000. The valuation of property to be condemned is $61,389.

The next meeting of the Board of Aldermen is Oct. 17. It is desired that some definite proposal can be made at that time.

ONE OF PROPHET'S DISCOVERERS, LONG ABSENT, COMES TO FETE

Charles E. Slayback of Chicago, a Former President of Merchants' Exchange, Away 35 Years.

Charles E. Slayback of Chicago, who was a resident of St. Louis for many years and president of the Merchants' Exchange in 1882, will attend the Velled Prophet's ball tomorrow evening after an absence of 35 years. He was one of the organizers of the mysterious body that first discovered this notable person, and was among the most active of his lordly retainers until his business called him from the city. He was never quite able to arrange his engagements so as to slip down to St. Louis to attend the ball, but this year he responded when some of his old friends threatened to go after him if he did not come. He arrived yesterday and was given a welcome when he went on the Exchange floor this morning.

Slayback has been an active grain trader the greater part of his life, and after leaving here was identified with the Chicago Board of Trade. He is now close to his eightieth year and is still taking an active interest in business.

BURGULARS GET 800-POUND SAFE

Strongbox Containing $270 Taken From Normandy Filling Station.

An 80-pound safe, containing $270, was carted away by burglars from the Standard Oil filling station, Florissant and Natural Bridge roads, Normandy, last night or this morning.

The safe was found later in a vacant lot two blocks from the filling station. The combination lock had been hammered off and the money stolen.

This is the third time a safe has been taken within the last week in St. Louis County, the other robberies being in Ferguson and Florissant.

CYNICISM IN AIR AS CAPITAL AND LABOR BEGIN CONFERENCE

employers to which men can turn as they would to a charter or constitution in any political party or private organization.

The opportunity to write a peace treaty between capital and labor appeals to the conferees, such an opportunity as the delegates had at Versailles. A feeling of bitterness, of distinction, of importance, of transcendent prestige enveloped the conference at its opening—an encouraging sign. For the delegates felt the backing, the compelling voice of the constituent bodies which they represent.

Practically every interest involved in industry is represented, but the disorganized, disorderly, lawless elements which want no common council or affiliation with the American Federation of Labor or allied bodies, no agreements and no understanding but absolute socialization and possession of the sinews of industry, naturally were not invited.

Willingness to Agree.

Their strength will diminish according as the achievements of the conservative, orderly, but nevertheless aggressive leaders of labor, are successful in making their average workingman believe that discussion and counsel has some advantage to the employer, for employers usually are willing to grant advantages, to make concessions, if they can be certain of efficiency, of stimulated production, of the validity of contracts made with labor and of an era of stability instead of the intermittent menace of strikes and extremists' agitation. Both sides in the conference know the principles. They are not new.

They know the basis of a reciprocal understanding. The problem is to get all employers everywhere to subscribe to them and also to get all employees everywhere to respect them. The dominant note of the conference is optimism because the more getting together is an advance over the past and the willingness to agree, the desire to work something out that will be mutually helpful and stabilizing in its psychological effect, is unquestionably present.

EARLY MILK DELIVERY RESUMED

Delivery of milk early in the morning resumed today, and will be continued until cold weather. Since last Tuesday, the milkman, long recognized as the champion early riser, has been getting around about the time the postman arrived.

Milkmen will leave the barns at 2 a. m. instead of 5 a. m. from now until cold weather sets in, the Milk Wagon Drivers' Union decided yesterday, out of consideration for the public, particularly the babies.

CIGARETTES GAIN IN ENGLAND

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Cigarette smoking is on the increase in England, especially among the women, according to experts. One estimate places the demand for cigarettes at twice what it was before the war.

"Women smoke a good deal more than formerly," said one tobacco man, "and some of them can't even hang out the washing unless they have a cigarette in their mouths."

SALOON MAN SHOT, ANOTHER ROBBED, ON WHISKY QUESTS

Negro Fatally Wounded in Resisting Attempt to Rob
Him—East St. Louisan
Lured Here and Held Up.

FALSE CONTAINERS PLACED IN BARRELS

Practice of Criminals Since July 1 Is to Sell Bogus Liquor or Entice Buyers to Place for Holdup.

Attempts of two saloon keepers buy hidden stocks of whisky resulted yesterday in the killing of one, and the robbery of the other of $950 in money and jewelry. Policemen said that the robbery of saloon keepers, either by selling them bogus liquor,
or by luring them to unfrequented places with the prospect of buying,
and there holding them up, has become a new practice of criminals as a result of prohibition.

A list of a dozen saloon keepers, apparently selected as prospective victims by a gang of such crooks, is in possession of the police, who obtained it in a raid today.

Charles Madison, 55 years old of 4235 Finney avenue, a negro who conducted a saloon at 1925 Market street, opposite Union Station, and who also owned an undertaking establishment, was fatally shot on Lewis place, east of Marcus avenue, at 12:30 a. m. when he resisted the attempt of two highwaymen to hold him up as he was on his way to buy nine cases of whisky which he had been told was for sale in that block.

Bartender Is Held.
George Peak, a bartender of 1821 Market, who was taking Madison to the place where the whisky was supposed to be, is held. He refuses to make a statement. A search is being made for the two robbers, who were white men.

Madison had gone to Marcus avenue and Lewis place on an undertaking wagon, accompanied by Peak and three negroes. The three remained at the wagon, at the corner, waiting for Madison and Peak to return, when the shooting occurred a few steps away. Madison had $550 in his pocket, as the whisky was to cost $425. When accosted, he reached for his revolver, and was shot twice, dying at 4 a. m.

BELGIAN KING AND CARDINAL WORSHIP TOGETHER IN BOSTON

Participate in Unique Scene at High Mass at Holy Cross Cathedral.

By the Associated Press.
BOSTON, Oct. 6.—King Albert of Belgium and Cardinal Mercier worshipped under the vaulted dome of Holy Cross Cathedral yesterday.

The scene within the cathedral was unique in the annals of the western world. It might have been a reproduction of a medieval painting. Two Cardinals sat upon their thrones and with them the King, his Queen and heir apparent.

Soon at 925 State street, East St.
Louis, fell a victim to three men who had devised an ingenious arrangement for swindling saloon-keepers, but didn't wait to try it on Murgie, whom they simply beat over

As the royal Belgians entered the cathedral to worship at a solemn pontifical high mass they were met at the communion rail by the prime of their people. Cardinal Mercier greeted them affectionately and then presented to them Cardinal O'Connell, of the Archdiocese of Boston, who escorted the King and Queen to gilded chairs upon the left of his throne at the right, or epistle side, of the altar. Behind them sat
the Duke of Brabant. At the left, of gospel side of the altar, was a second crimson throne, upon which sat Cardinal Mercier.

At 4 p. m. Harvard University conferred upon the King the degree of doctor of laws.

Three 52-gallon whisky barrels were "doctored." A water-tight container, holding about a quart, fastened to the under side of the head of each barrel, with the mouth against the wood. A hole was then bored in the head, so that whisky poured into the hole was caught in the container. The rest of the barrel was filled with water. Any prospective buyer could tell that the barrel was filled. If he put a siphon into the hole in the barrel to sample the contents, he found it was good whisky, and, unless he drained off more than a quart, he would not know that the barrel was not full of whisky.

Took Murgie to Garage.
Murgie met a man in a saloon at Seventeenth and Chestnut streets a few days ago, who said he could arrange to sell Murgie three barrels of whisky at $200 a barrel. Murgie met him last night, and they went to a garage in a rear of 4112 Westminster place. As they entered, the man hit Murgie over the head, and two other men inside drew revolvers, and took $600 and a diamond ring and stud valued at $350 from the saloonkeeper.

Suffering from a deep scalp wound, Murgie staggered around to the back door of the house, which is the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Dean, and she summoned the police, although Murgie departed before they arrived.

The garage was examined, and the device in the barrels was discovered, and also papers were found, giving Murgie's name and address. Detectives followed him to East St. Louis and got his story.

Couple Is Arrested.
Mrs. Dean said that the garage was rented Sept. 18 by a man and a woman, who paid a month's rent,
and soaped the windows so that nobody could look inside. Getting trace of the woman in the neighborhood,
Police Captain Stinger arrested Miss
Essie Smith, 24 years old, at 1232
North King's highway, divorced wife of Edward Morris, 38, and from her they obtained information on which they arrested Morris at the Albany Hotel, 4873 Page boulevard.

He was identified by Murgie as the man who took him to the garage and slugged him, and by Mrs. Dean as the man who accompanied Miss Smith when the garage was rented.

Miss Smith said she and Morris came here from Chicago recently,
and were preparing to be remarried.
When she went with him to rent the garage, she understood he intended to buy an automobile, she said. She denied any knowledge of the whisky operations.

In Morris' room were found corks and pieces of rubber tubing similar to that found in the garage with the barrels. An automatic pistol also was found. Morris would make no statement.

Kingdon Gould May Attend V. P.
Ball.
A reservation for Kingdon Gould,
of New York, eldest son of George Jay Gould, has been made at Hotel Statler for tomorrow night, it was learned today. It is believed that Gould is coming to St. Louis to attend the Velvet Prophet's ball, as he has done in some past seasons. He is 22 years old.

GRAND JURY TO HOLD PROFITEERING INQUIRY

Instructed to Return Indictments Against Persons Joining in Combination to Increase Prices.

The October Grand Jury, which was sworn in today, received special instructions from Circuit Judge Garesche to investigate the subject of profiteering, and to return indictments against any persons who may be shown to have joined in any combination for increasing the prices of the necessities of life.

Edward Buder of 3387 Pershing avenue, treasurer of the Mercantile Trust Co., was named as foreman of the grand jury.

Judge Garesche, in the part of his instructions relating to food prices,
said:

"In view of the great amount of industrial unrest, due to high and seemingly excessive prices of food, clothing and other necessities, and in further view of the uniformity in the amount of these prices, it appears that there may be combinations to increase prices.

"Such combinations are a felony under the laws of the State, and are punishable by imprisonment for a term not exceeding five years, under sections 10,391-2 of the Revised Statutes of 1909, as amended by the session acts of 1912.

"This law should be strictly enforced, if any profiteers have been operating through combinations."

"So much of the future wellbeing and happiness of the people depends on full, free and fair competition, that it is a paramount duty to make a thorough investigation."

The Judge suggested that inquiry should be made into the operations of warehouses and cold storage plants, to determine whether so-called shortages of food were natural or were induced by combinations or individual acts in violation of law.

STRIKE AT GOVERNOR'S FACTORY

Twenty-six painters and decorators employed at the St. Louis Coffin Co. plant, 1825 Chouteau avenue, of which Gov. Gardner is president, are on strike following the refusal of the company to grant their demand for an increase of 10 cents an hour. The men are getting from 40 to 50 cents an hour for a nine-hour day.

C. J. Lamert, secretary of the Painters' District Council, said today that the strike was in violation of an agreement between the company and the council, and that the matter will be taken up at the council's meeting Wednesday night. The strikers are members of Local 950, Furniture Finishers, Painters and Decorators Union.

DAVIS SAID NOT TO BE AFTER GOVERNORSHIP

Reported Assured of St. Louis
G. O. P. Support for Delegate-at-Large.

Lieutenant-Colonel Dwight F.
Davis, who was suggested Saturday
by Collector Koehn for the Republican nomination for Governor, and who Mayor Kiel said would have the united support of the Republican organization in St. Louis, was said today by Chairman Schmoll of the Republican City Committee to have refused definitely several weeks ago to be a candidate.

The incident Davis boom was thus nipped in the bud by the city chairman, who said the organization was not committed to any person for announcing the nomination for a direct statement of his position.

Wants to Be Delegate.
According to party leaders close to Schmoll, Davis really wants to be a delegate at large to the Republican National Convention and for that they say the organization will give him undivided support. It is said on seemingly good authority that when Mayor Kiel stated Saturday that Davis would have the St.
Louis organization support, he knew Davis had declared he had no desire to be Governor.

While this condition would indicate that Davis would not be a candidate, it apparently does not change
the situation as to refusal of St.
Louis machine Republicans to support E. E. E. McJimmey, the editor of the Springfield Republican, the only avowed candidate. Koehn has announced the opposition of his faction to McJimmey. Schmoll has said the organization in St. Louis would be united on the governorship, and Mayor Kiel was quick to give out the impression that his element of the committee would support Davis, an indication that it is ready to go to somebody besides McJimmey.

Hyde Frequently Discussed.
Arthur M. Hyde of Trenton, who has been prominently identified with the progressive element of the Republican party, was in St. Louis today in connection with organization here of the Springfield Memorial chapter. Hyde frequently has been discussed as a probable candidate for Governor and has a considerable following which would make him a real factor if he should seek the nomination. He was noncommittal on politics today.

Charles C. Madison of Kansas City stopped off for the day on his way to Washington. Madison expressed the opinion that when the active campaign time was reached McJimmey would find real opposition, not only in St. Louis but out in the State.

TROOPS GUARD STEEL PLANTS AT GARY, IND.

Four Companies Are Rushed to City After Resumption of Rioting.

GARY, Ind., Oct. 6.—State troops
today patrolled the avenues leading to steel plants and parts of the city where disorders were likely to develop, four companies having been brought here late last night from Indiana Harbor and East Chicago, Ind., where 12 companies were quartered, after rioting was resumed here by strike sympathizers.

Late at night hundreds of strikers began to congregate before the gates of the United States Steel Corporation plant and the mill of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Co. Policemen and special deputies clashed with the crowd of strikers and many bricks and stones were thrown.

Finally the situation became so threatening that Mayor Hodes called on Adjutant-General Smith of Indiana to send several companies of soldiers as he believed affairs had not beyond the control of the police.

While the troops were on the way
here in street cars, policemen succeeded in dispersing the crowds after using their clubs freely.

"AUDITOR" TAKES $381 FOR SAFE KEEPING; CLERK WAITS 5 HOURS

Policeman Is Called Into Cigar Store at 3:30 a. m. by Clerk Who Was Waiting for Cash.

Eugene Schaefer, 3608 South
Compton avenue, a clerk in a United Cigar Store at Seventh and Olive streets, called a policeman into the store at 3:30 a. m. yesterday and told him that he had been waiting since 10:30 p. m. for an "auditor"
of the company to bring back $381 which he had taken for "temporary safekeeping."

He said that a man had entered the store and had presented a card identifying him as "J. C. Clinker" and stating that he was an auditor.

Schaefer said that the $381 was in a tin box and that the "auditor" asked him if he did not have a key to the cash drawer. He replied that he had not, that he was only a clerk.
"Well," the "auditor" said, "I will have to take this money over to the hotel. I will bring you a key and then you can lock it up." He departed with the money.

PAID $1.50 DEBT; CALLED INSANE

FORT WORTH, Tex., Oct. 6.—Was Guy Plumber temporarily insane
when he tried to murder his wife with a six-shooter? The Tarrant County jury thought not, and sentenced him to seven years in the penitentiary. But Plumber's attorneys appealed.

They set up as grounds the fact that Plumber "had a queer look in his eye, and also that he paid a man $1.50 he owed him."

a factory.

It is a unique sort of a factory, because while of course
its object for being, just like any other factory, is to produce, the ideal is higher than the object, and we don't let it produce at all unless it produces up to our ideal of quality.

If there is shortage of labor or scarcity of the best materials, we reduce the output, we never lower the standard.

We make over-stuffed furniture, hair mattresses and box-springs.

There is so much concealed from the purchaser, we like to know that from the ground up and all through, nothing but the finest materials go in—that foundations are built skillfully and unhurriedly—that only real hair possessing that springy, resilient quality known as "life" get in—and if down in the final touch of luxury, that it is real down and all down.

There are only good designs, their difference is to suit your preference, and the quality of our factory over-stuffed furniture will make it a pride and a comfort from generation to generation.

The same is true of mattresses and box-springs—comfort that you luxuriate in and quality, that makes the comfort permanent.

Orders for our factory are filled in the order of their receiving. This may be of interest if you are merely deferring the placing of work you have decided to have us do for you.

KROGER'S

TROOPS SET TRAP FOR ALLEGED HEAD OF NEGRO RIOTERS

Soldiers Spread Out in Cordons in Phillips County, Arkansas, Hunting for Insurgents.

PRISONERS CONFESS PLOT TO MASSACRE

Killing of 21 Elaine Planters Today to Have Been Signal for General Uprising of Secret Society.

By the Associated Press. HELENA, Ark., Oct. 6.—In an effort to capture Ed Ware, alleged ringleader, and a band of 20 insurgent negroes believed to be still at large following last week's disorders, 500 soldiers at daylight today were thrown out in a cordon encircling an area of approximately 35 square miles in southern Phillips County.

By the Associated Press. ELAINE, Ark., Oct. 6.—Discovery of what is believed to have been a widespread plot on the part of organized negroes for a general killing of whites in this locality and possibly in other parts of the South, led officials today to tighten up on emergency measures and redouble their efforts to apprehend leaders of the alleged organization who are still uncaught.

The existence of the supposed conspiracy was brought to light by the committee of seven appointed by civil and military authorities following the race disorders here last week through the questioning of negro prisoners.

According to committee members, the negro captives readily revealed to them the inner workings of the plan. Today, the negroes declared, was the date set for the uprising. Women are said to have been members of the organization which the authorities say was known as the Progressive Farmers and Household Union of America.

Proposed General Massacre. Twenty-one white planters in this district, according to the confessions had been singled out to be killed first. The killing of the 21, it was asserted, was to be followed immediately by a general massacre of whites, after which the negroes were to take over the land and till it to suit themselves.

It was said authoritatively that efforts were being made to connect white men with the propaganda to arouse the negroes and incite them to killing the white residents.

An extensive courier system was explained in the evidence providing for messengers known to the negroes as "the Paul Reveres." These couriers had been duly appointed to ride into all parts of the territory, according to the testimony and summon members to arms.

"We've just begun," was the password of the organization, the negroes told the investigators. This password and the "Paul Reveres" couriers were confessed to have been employed last Tuesday night and Wednesday morning in summoning blacks to Hoop Spur, 18 miles south of Helena, after W. A. Adkins, special agent of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, had been killed and Charles Pratt, Deputy Sheriff, had been wounded.

The confessions were taken to explain the rapidly which armed blacks were assembled at Hoop Spur and the neighboring town of Elaine following the incident. The statements added that at the time Adkins was killed, there were 150 armed negroes in the church at the scene of the shooting. Some of these were women, it was said, carrying automatic revolvers in their stockings.

Questioned about their supply of shotguns, rifles and ammunition, negroes declared they often had been advised by speakers always to "keep their racks full," and "if your rack ain't full, fill it now."

Members of the investigating committee declared there is every evidence that mercenary individuals have been inciting the negroes in the name of the Federal Government. Among other things, it was stated, they were led to believe a part of the Government at Washington upheld them in arming and organizing against whites, that a large temple and armories were to be erected at Washington for the convening of their "congress" and for Federal training of 3000 soldiers to protect them in their uprising.

BODY FOUND IN CREEK IDENTIFIED

A Coroner's jury at Kirkwood rendered a verdict of suicide. Hobeelman has been employed in a Maplewood butcher shop until he became ill a year ago. He is survived by wife and a daughter.

Gravette Calls for Help.
BOSTON, Oct. 6.—A call for immediate assistance was received from the steamer Lake Gravette at the naval radio station here last night. The message said that the steamer, which is bound from Fowey, England, for Portland, was in great need of coal, and because of the heavy weather was unable to reach a coaling port. She is 900 miles east of Cape Sable.

WOMEN SEE END OF LONG FIGHT FOR VOTE

Suffrage Leaders Believe 36 States Will Ratify Amendment by Next Spring.

By the Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—The end of the long fight to obtain votes for women is in sight. According to leaders of the National Women's party here, there is no longer any doubt that women will be enfranchised in time to take part in the primaries of the party conventions next spring and to vote in the Presidential election in the fall. The ratification of the suffrage amendment by the Utah Legislature last week brings the number of ratifying states up to 17, and when Colorado acts on Oct. 15, one-half of the necessary 36 votes will have been obtained.

Summons of the Colorado Legislature marked a further break in the unexpected opposition to special sessions which suffrage leaders encountered in the West. When the amendment passed Congress last spring, suffragists counted upon immediate special sessions in all ratifying states to give a momentum to the movement and bring about quick success. In many instances, however, Western Governors declined to call their legislatures together unless their action would be taken in favor of enfranchisement. Some objected to the expense, some cited the necessity of looking after the crops, and one Governor, California's, said that his State would get no glory out of being the nineteenth or twentieth to ratify, but would be remembered in history if it rushed to the rescue in the last moment as the decisive, thirty-sixth State.

14 Pledges Received.
A persistent campaign of the part of the suffragists, however, has brought pledges of special sessions from 14 Governors, in addition to Gov. Shoup of Colorado. The 14 States, in which the legislatures are expected to meet early in 1920, are California, Oregon, Arizona, Idaho, Indiana, North Dakota, New Mexico, South Dakota, Maine, Washington, West Virginia, Wyoming, Delaware and Nevada. In these States, suffrage leaders say they are assured of success, and they expect to win in four of the States which will hold regular sessions in January—Maryland, Kentucky, Rhode Island and New Jersey.

This, then, is the arithmetic of the situation: Colorado this fall, 1; 14 States in special session early next year, 15; already ratified, 17, total, 36, the number required. By way of a margin, the suffragists say that a special session is expected in Oklahoma, though the Governor has not yet announced it, and that the legislatures of Vermont and Connecticut are ready to ratify if called into session.

17 States Have Ratified.
The 17 states which have ratified represent a majority of the population of the country. More than half are in the Middle West; New England is represented by Massachusetts and New Hampshire and the South by Texas and Arkansas. Illinois would have been the first to ratify except for a mistake in printing the amendment, which had to be voted on a second time. Wisconsin, therefore, heads the list, having ratified June 10, followed by Michigan, June 11; Kansas, June 16; Ohio, June 16; New York, June 16; Illinois, June 17; Pennsylvania, June 24; Massachusetts, June 25; Texas, June 28; Iowa, July 2; Missouri, July 3; Arkansas, July 28; Montana, July 30; Nebraska, August 2; Minnesota, Aug. 8; New Hampshire, Sept. 10, Utah, Oct. 3. Four of these states gave a unanimous vote—Michigan, Kansas, New York and Nebraska. In 10 of them ratification was obtained at a special session.

Though gratified at the record of ratification virtually half completed in four months, suffrage leaders say the whole matter ought to be over and done with. No good reason, they assert, can be given for delay in calling special sessions. The argument of expense advanced by some Governors is countered with the reminder that it has never been offered when the question was that of enfranchising even small groups of men, such as the soldiers on the Mexican border. The only opposition to early action has been local, for the national political leaders have vied with each other in efforts to line up the states. Of the 17 which have voted, the Republicans have controlled the legislatures of 13 and the Democrats of three. Of the 11 special calls actually issued to date, five have been by Democratic Governors and six by Republicans.

Tennessee and Florida, which could have been counted upon to ratify, since in Tennessee the women have presidential suffrage and in Florida both the Governor and the Legislature are committed to suffrage, have been unable to do so, because under their statutes an election must intervene between the submission of amendment and action on it.

Even if ratification is not completed by 1920, the women of 29 states will vote for the next President, sharing in the control of 236 of the 531 electoral votes—a fact which accounts in large measure for the appeals issued from the leaders of both parties for early and favorable action on the amendment.

MEMBER OF RUSSIAN BAND ADMITS POLITICAL MURDERS

Man Held at Stockholm Says Crimes Were Directed Against Bolsheviki; Beautiful Girl Was Lure.
STOCKHOLM, Oct. 6.—Hadji Lashet, one of the 16 Russians arrested here charged with belonging to a political murder band with at least three murders to his credit, made an unreserved confession of guilt Saturday. Versions of the story current here, in which a beautiful Russian girl was mentioned as the lure by which the victims were enticed to the scene of their death, differed as to whether the murder band was acting under Bolshevik or anti-Bolshevik colors, but Hadji Lashet, in his confession, adhered to his previous statement that the murders were of a political character and were directed against Bolshevism. According to the police, Gen. Ardasjef, one of the victims, was a Bolshevik commercial agent and spy, who had received 68,000,000 rubles for use in Sweden. They charged that the murders were committed for money.

Details of the activities of the band current in Stockholm told how Ardasjef was enticed to the villa of Hadji Lashet in the outskirts of Stockholm, supposedly to a rendezvous with a woman, but found there instead a band of Russians intent upon his death. After being chained to a wall of the villa for a day Ardasjef was condemned to death. His life was promised him if he would sign several blank checks, but after doing this the doomed man was blindfolded, gagged and garrotted to death. While the unfortunate victim was being slowly strangled, the young woman was said to have watched his dying struggles calmly, cigarette in mouth.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F.M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system. If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headache, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results. Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 10c and 25c.—ADV.

NEW HISTORY COURSE STARTS WITH FAMILY

Grade School Pupils Then Study City, State, Mississippi Valley and Nation, in Successive Stages.

The Department of Instruction is gratified with the result of the first month's test of history study in elementary grade schools here, which has been revised as a result of the world war.

The new system was tried out at the Wyman School, Theresa and Park avenues, at the beginning of the present term, and proved so successful there that it was extended to the other public schools of the city without delay.

Memorizing of paragraphs and pages has been eliminated, and pupils, in addition to getting information from text books, now are educated through personal observation.

Current events are portrayed in the schoolrooms, pupils acting the roles of modern historical figures. Ancient history has been discarded for modern topics.

The pupils display keener interest in the present method than they did in the old style of book learning.

Text Books Revised.
The new curriculum has necessitated a revision of text books. Instead of the old standard works, which for generations have guided the public school pupils in their preparatory work for higher education, new ones have been adopted which relate to the causes and events of the war, the participation of the United States in the struggle, the peace conference, and systematic culture in principles of democracy and patriotism, to promote American ideals in the coming generation. The prime object sought is to instill into the minds of pupils the thought that interdependence of the people of the world is essential to peace.

In the first grade the history of the home is taught, the relative duties of parents, children, and servants. This is accomplished by demonstrations, pupils acting the roles of various members of the household. It is believed that by this method the children may be given a clear conception of things upon which their later studies will have an important bearing.

In the second grade pupils are led to an understanding of society a little beyond the immediate environment of the home. They are taken in groups through the neighborhood of the school building and given a practical idea of the part in their own lives played by tradesmen. The origin of the storekeeper is traced to the days of Indian trading.

City Is Studied.
The next logical step, in the third grade, is the history of the city. After reading of the important events in the city's growth, the children are taken in groups to the various city institutions, industrial plants and commercial houses. The history of the development of the fire department is studied through pictures and exhibits of the Missouri Historical Society; the early days of St. Louis as a river city are recalled by trips to the wharf; the city's development as a railroad center is described in a visit to Union Station and the class is informed of the plans on foot to improve the waterways and re-establish St. Louis as a river port. Hospitals and hotels are visited and the class is told of their relative importance in the progress of the city. The transportation system is inspected and the children are told how the electric line succeeded the old horse-car plan. Pupils are instructed that laborers are as important factors in the growth of the city as doctors or lawyers.

Valley Growth Analyzed.
Early history of the United States is covered in the fifth grade. There is only slight reference to the American revolution and the Civil War. The landing of the Pilgrims, the struggles of the Colonists, the early transportation problems and the development of various sections of the country are gone over perfunctorily, but considerable attention is given to the growth of the Mississippi Valley, and the service rendered by La Salle and De Soto is covered in detail.

The sixth grade is taken beyond the boundaries of the United States and instructed in the various phases of sympathetic relations between Americans and the people of Europe. The purpose of this study is to convince the pupils that the people of the whole world depend upon each other, that nations cannot exist except as a union.

The seventh and eighth grades are drilled in intensive study of American history as it relates to world affairs. The world war, the events which led to it, what America did and why, the peace conference and questions of reconstruction are taken up. Clippings from newspapers and periodicals are used in this study. Messages and speeches of President Wilson, Lloyd George, Clemenceau and other figures notable in working out the peace treaty are read and discussed. The peace conference is dramatized, pupils acting the roles of the participants at the peace table, and in this way the big events are brought home to the class more comprehensively than if merely read from a book.

E. M. HOUSE AND WIFE TO SAIL FROM BREST FOR U. S. TODAY

Peace Delegates Says Plans Are Uncertain, but Will Be Governed by Wishes of President Wilson.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Oct. 6.—E. M. House of the American peace delegation, accompanied by Mrs. House, left Paris for Brest last night. They will sail for the United States today on the steamship Northern Pacific.

Mr. House announced that his plans were uncertain. He expects to see President Wilson as soon as the President is able to receive visitors, and said he was ready to return to Europe or do anything else the President wishes him to do.

House said the Supreme Council probably would continue its sessions in Paris for an indefinite period, and that President Wilson, after ratification of the German treaty by three of the great powers, probably would call a meeting of the league of nations executive council to be held in Paris, as it would be impossible for the members to go to Washington within two weeks, which is the period the treaty allows the council after the ratification of the treaty, to settle the Saar Valley problem.

He added that this meeting likely would deal only with the Saar Valley, leaving other matters for a later meeting.

DR. JAMES W. LEE BURIED

Many prominent St. Louisans paid a last tribute of respect at the funeral of Rev. Dr. James W. Lee at St. John's Methodist Church, of which he formerly was pastor, yesterday afternoon. The services were conducted by Rev. Ivan Lee Holt, the present pastor, and the funeral oration was delivered by Bishop E. R. Hendrix of Kansas City.

Rev. John G. Cannon, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian Church, spoke in behalf of ministers of other than the Methodist denominations.

Honorary pallbearers were the stewards of St. John's church and active pallbearers were Frank P. Rand, James Brookmire, Harry Wallace, Richard S. Kennard, Eugene Williams and Ray Carter. Interment was in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Wins Prize Cup As Healthiest Baby

Was Brought Up on Father John's Medicine. So His Parents Declare.

Here is a picture of Thomas Rowan, Jr., with the cup that he won as the healthiest baby in the Yonkers Baby Parade. There were over seventy-five entries. His father says, "I have been giving him Father John's Medicine ever since he was one year old and it has kept him in good health and made him look like the picture. Whenever he has a cold, Father John's Medicine makes him well again and I can't recommend it too highly for children if they are not strong. I would not be without it in my house. I have a little girl baby one and one-half years old and I have started her on the medicine." (Signed) Thomas Rowan, 26 Riverview Pl., Yonkers, N. Y.

Thousands of families find that they can rely on Father John's Medicine for colds and body building. They have proven by more than sixty years of success that the pure food elements of Father John's Medicine actually do make new flesh and strength and build-up the little ones who have become weakened and run-down. It is a safe food tonic for all the family because it does not contain alcohol or dangerous drugs. Guaranteed.—ADV.

GIRL IS SOUGHT AFTER MAN SHE SAW SHOT DIES

Express Driver Was Fired on Without Warning on Street Saturday Night.

A young woman about 19 years old, who wore a long green coat and a large black hat, is sought as the witness who can explain why a man who was talking to her at Compton and Park avenues at 11:15 p. m. Saturday, shot and fatally wounded Harry J. Ryan, 21 years old, 2935 Hickory street, and can tell who the man was. Ryan died at the city hospital at 5:15 a. m. yesterday.

There is no reason for Ryan's killing apparent to the police at this time. The girl in the green coat was waiting at the corner, near a dance hall. Ryan and two companions had been across the street to a saloon and were returning to the dance hall. They saw an automobile carrying no license, either State or city, and occupied by four men, drive up to the curb at the point where the girl was standing. Two of the men alighted and began talking to the girl. By that time Ryan and his companions were approaching the spot. As they reached the curb one of the men turned and drew a revolver.

The girl cried out "Don't shoot." The man fired without a word, the bullet entering Ryan's breast just above the heart. The two men, instead of re-entering the automobile, ran and were pursued by James Dyer, 25 years old, 3137 St. Vincent street, one of Ryan's companions, to an alley on Virginia avenue near Park avenue. They stopped and one said: "Let's get him." That caused Dyer to retreat.

Ryan's other companion, Harry J. Oldenberg, 20, of 3134 Hickory street, and Dyer, visited him before his death at the city hospital. He asked them: "Why did that Jew shoot me?" He told the police he did not know the identity of his assailant.

Roy Finkbein, 4104 Clarence avenue, a chauffeur, who was arrested today, admitted he was driver of the car that carried the four men and gave this version of the shooting: He had driven the four men to the dance hall and became involved with them in an argument over the men's desire to load further passengers in the car. He said he drove around the corner from the dance hall and that the argument was renewed. A shot was fired and he saw Ryan fall. He said that Ryan had not been involved in the argument at any stage. One of the men suggested that they had better "clear out," he said, and three of them got in and he drove west in Park avenue. He said two others of the men ran after the car, but that he did not stop. His passengers alighted at Elliot and Cass avenues, he said.

Good hard wheat is scarce this year—

We paid the price and got the best.

There is so much poor wheat, and so little good wheat, this year, that it was necessary to pay high to get the best. For years we have been paying extra and getting the choice wheat, so this year we didn't hesitate on account of price. We jumped in and paid higher prices, and, as usual, got the best.

We didn't want to take any chances on the quality of Valier's Enterprise Flour. Only a small percentage of this year's crop has the necessary strength to make

Valier's Enterprise Flour

You can absolutely depend on this flour this year, as you have always done. If it costs you more than ordinary flour, as it will, just remember that we couldn't make Valier's Enterprise Flour from the general run of wheat.

You wouldn't be satisfied if we had, for you don't like soggy, heavy bread—no matter what it costs.

Valier's Enterprise Flour costs a little more in the sack, but a whole lot less in the loaf, because you get more loaves from the sack and have no failures.

Your grocer can sell you Valier's Enterprise Flour. Don't experiment with any other—insist on getting it.

BANKERS TO ANSWER CHARGES

Preliminary of Accused Fargo (N. D.) Men Will Be Held Tomorrow.
FARGO, N. D., Oct. 6.—Preliminary hearing of President H. J. Hagen and Cashier P. P. Sherman of the Scandinavian-American Bank of Fargo, closed Thursday, who are alleged to have misled deputy bank examiners as to the bank's actual condition, will be held Tuesday before Justice Miller of Fargo. They were arrested Saturday and freed under $5000 bonds pending examination. The bank was closed by orders of the State Banking Board.

ROGER N. BALDWIN TO PREACH

PACIFISM IN LABOR DISPUTES
Former Secretary of Civic League to Work as Cook on His Tour of Industrial Districts.

Roger N. Baldwin, former secretary of the St. Louis Civic League and lately a prisoner in a New Jersey jail because of his refusal to comply with the draft law, announced today his plans for a tour of the coal and steel industrial districts, in which he will preach pacifism as applied to labor disputes. He is the guest of Miss Mary Bulkie, suffrage worker, at 5424 Cabanne avenue. His bride of two months, who is still known by her former name, Madeline Z. Doty, is in New York. Baldwin arrived in St. Louis yesterday, after having beaten his way from Peoria, Ill., to the East Side yards in a gravel car. He did this, he said, by showing his union card to the trainmen. Baldwin learned the cook's trade in jail, and he plans to work as a cook, preferably in the cheaper sort of restaurants, on his journey eastward.

"I am a thorough-going pacifist," Baldwin said to a Post-Dispatch reporter. "If I had believed in the war I should not have stopped short of serving in the trenches. As I did not believe in it, and do not believe in war under any circumstances, I refused to perform any war service, and my imprisonment resulted. My friends say to me, 'You would fight in the Red Army, if you were in Russia, wouldn't you?' I reply, 'Certainly not; I would be in prison today if I were in Russia.'"

"I served in the picket line with the steel strikers at Gary and South Chicago a few days ago. I believe the strikers have substantial grievances, but at the same time it must be recognized that strikes now are more and more directed toward the control of industry, rather than merely to increasing wages or improving conditions. With the industries controlled by the workers for service, the six-hour day will be possible without a lessening of production."

"I do not approve of violence by capital or by labor, and it is my desire to see the great industrial changes, which I believe are now under way, made by peaceful means. However, I have no interest in political action."

JOHNSON SAYS ORGANIZED

PROPAGANDA AIDS LEAGUE

Senator Issues Statement on Departure From California for Speech at Portland.
By the Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6.—Senator Hiram W. Johnson, who left here last night for Portland to continue his speaking tour, issued a statement before his departure, alleging that in addition to the sincere advocates of the league there was an organized and well-financed propaganda endeavor to create sentiment in its favor and also another element—the Anglo-Japanese propaganda and press.

After pointing out that there were sincere advocates of the league of nations, he continued:
"Beyond these good people there is an organized propaganda, with innumerable publicity men and women extravagantly protected, the whole financed by a tremendous sum of money, which has seized upon every utterance, has capitalized every incident and every possible advocate, and by the strength of its organization, the threat of its published displeasure and its lavish use of funds, has endeavored to create a public sentiment and by the exercise of its power and money has measurably succeeded."

"Moreover, in addition to this propaganda, the most clever and astute politicians, caring nothing for the league and everything for political advantage, have skillfully manipulated for political purposes the sentiment thus created."

"Skulking behind these two forces the highly protected publicity of the League to Enforce Peace and the cunning politicians, is another element, sinister and threatening, the Anglo-Japanese propaganda and press."

ELECTRIFICATION OF STREET

LIGHTS BY SECTIONS PROPOSED

System Would Be Changed as Funds Become Available Under Engineer's Plan.

St. Louis should adopt a uniform plan for lighting its streets by electricity and put that plan into effect by districts as funds become available, is the conclusion of Ralph Toensfeldt, an engineer of the Department of Public Utilities, who was sent to Chicago and Milwaukee to examine the plans of electrification which those cities are making effective.

The Board of Public Service has recommended the electrifying of the lighting systems in parks at a cost of $193,000. It is proposed by Director Hooke that a system for the reconstruction of the entire city's lighting shall be made before Aug. 31, 1920, when the present lighting contracts expire.

Toensfeldt found that Chicago is placing its lights on 11-foot poles. The consequence is that a bright glare of sunlight is reflected on the pavement. The theory seems to be of discernment by contrast—making visible objects on the street by giving them relief against a brightly lighted space. He declares that this does not make it possible for pedestrians to see clearly the features of those they meet.

In Milwaukee he found that lights were being put as high in the air as possible on poles from 15 to 20 feet high, the theory being one of lighting by diffusion, giving a glow to the entire area instead of isolated bright spots as in Chicago. He declares that this system makes it possible to see features of passers 10 or 20 feet away.

Are You, Too, Paying the Price?

For quick relief avoid over-eating, over-drinking, over-working and other excesses, and help the weakened kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have brought new health and happiness to thousands of sufferers. Many of them live right here in St. Louis.

These Are St. Louis People:

EASTON AVENUE

A. P. Vitrey, prop. of commercial printing establishment, 3846 Easton av., says: "I had a bad attack of kidney complaint, which lasted for about two weeks. I first noticed pains through my kidneys and I felt tired and heavy, especially on getting up in the morning. My back ached considerably. I had been reading the recommendations of so many local people who had been benefited by Doan's Kidney Pills, that I decided to try them, getting a supply from Teiber's Pharmacy. It was no time after using them that I got straightened up and I have been free from kidney trouble ever since."

N. VANDEVENTER AVENUE

Mrs. C. Combe, 1819 North Vandeventer avenue, says: "I use a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills occasionally when I feel any symptoms of kidney disorder or my back starts aching, and they are sure to relieve me. When I began using Doan's Kidney Pills the first time I was so bad off with my back I couldn't get up after sitting down. Flashes of light would appear before my eyes. I would also have dizzy spells and pains in the back of my neck, which extended up into my head. As soon as I began taking Doan's relief followed, and I have relied upon this medicine ever since."

PAGE AVENUE

Mrs. J. M. Swallow, 4434 Page Av., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills for pains in my back, which I have been subject to, especially when I have taken a cold. Every attack has been quickly dispelled by their use and I find that Doan's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys and by strengthening these organs make me feel so much brighter and give me new life and energy. I really can't give more praise to Doan's than their merit deserves, for the good they have done in my home."

EASTON AVENUE

August W. Kraft, 4223 Easton avenue, says: "I am always ready to say a good word for Doan's Kidney Pills. I am glad to recommend them to anyone suffering from kidney trouble. I was in bad shape some time ago, owing to this complaint. My back was painful and I had to lay off work for a week. I had been serving in the Philippines, in the United States Army, and the climate and bad water had a lot to do with bringing on my trouble. My bladder was affected. I also suffered from rheumatic pains, which settled in my lower limbs, and in rainy weather I could hardly walk. I used about two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and was cured. I have felt fine in every way since."

MICHIGAN AVENUE

Chas. C. Grosse, 7212 Michigan avenue, says: "We used Doan's Kidney Pills in our house for several years, and they have always brought relief to anyone suffering from kidney disorders. I first used Doan's when I was down and out with kidney trouble. I was so bad I could hardly turn over in bed, owing to the intense pains through my back and kidneys. I also suffered from rheumatic troubles, and it was very painful, especially in my lower limbs. As soon as I began using Doan's Kidney Pills I got relief, and they have never failed to ward off any symptoms when I have used them since."

NO package of Doan's Kidney Pills is genuine unless it bears the maple-leaf trade-mark and the signature—'James Doan.'

This Is Better Than Laxatives

One NR Tablet Each Night for a Week Will Correct Your Constipation and Make Constant Dosing Unnecessary. Try It.

Poor digestion and assimilation mean a poorly nourished body and low vitality. Poor elimination means clogged bowels, indigestion, putrefaction and the formation of poisonous gases which are absorbed by the blood and carried through the body. The result is weakness, headaches, dizziness, coated tongue, inactive liver, indigestion, poor appetite, impoverished blood, sallow complexion, pimples, skin disease, and often times serious illness.

Ordinary laxatives, purges and cathartics—salo, oil, calomel and the like—may relieve for a few hours, but real, lasting benefit can only come through use of medicine that tones up and strengthens the digestive as well as the eliminative organs. Get a 25c box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) and take one tablet each night for a week. Relief will follow the very first dose, but a few days will elapse before you feel and realize the fullest benefit. When you get straightened out and feel just right again you need not take medicine every day—an occasional NR Tablet will then keep your system in good condition and you will always feel your best. Remember, keeping your bowels regular is the key to a healthy, active and cheerful life. Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) are sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist.

STRIKE OF BRITISH RAILWAY MEN ENDS WITH COMPROMISE

Union Mediators Win Settlement on Agreement That Present Wages Shall Continue Until 1920.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—As suddenly as it began the railway strike has ended. It has ended, too, in defeat for neither side and a striking victory for the trade union mediators, whose efforts to obtain peace were untrifling, even when the situation was most threatening. Broadly, the terms of settlement are that the present earnings of the men in all grades (that is, pre-war wages plus the 30 shillings or $7.50, war wage) shall continue until Sept. 30 next year. This is a considerable concession by the Government, which originally proposed that there should be no alteration until Dec. 31, 1919, and then suggested that no alteration should take place until March 31, 1920.

The whole question of wages is to be rediscussed, subject to the provision that the wages of no railway man on any system shall fall below 51 shillings ($12.75) a week, till the cost of living drops to less than 110 per cent above normal. This is a concession which will mean an immediate advance of 2 shillings (50 cents) a week to many thousands of porters, who received only 16 shillings ($4) in 1914 and are presently getting 49 shillings ($12.25).

Altogether, though the men's demands were not conceded in the form submitted, in substance their claim is gained for a full year. News of the settlement, which was announced from Downing street last evening, spread throughout London with bewildering rapidity. Bus men and tram conductors quickly told the good tidings to their passengers who, however, for the most part refused to be convinced until they read in extra editions of the Sunday papers the three worlds: "Strike settled, official."

General Feeling of Relief.

The general feeling appeared to be one of relief rather than of joy, and nobody seemed troubled much about the terms of the settlement.

Railway men traveling home in busses and trams with their wives were, however, in a state of glee, and they made the journey a sort of joy ride.

The railway pickets outside the Euston Station were relieved by cyclist orderlies, who rode up and shouted that cheery message: "Satisfactory settlement." The men shook hands and the pickets left the station.

The Daily News says: "The leaders on each side claim to have secured peace with honor. The defeat of the Government, in spite of the dual role which it was, unfortunately, compelled to fill, would have been obtained without involving the whole of trade unionism in ruin, for it was abundantly clear that the unions of the country had resolved to go under themselves rather than stand by and see the railway men broken."

King George, who had hurried back to London from Scotland in consequence of the strike situation, took the keenest interest in its development, and while carefully refraining from any suggestion of taking sides in the dispute, lost no time getting in close touch with both parties. He was at work in his private room from an early hour dealing with documents from the various Government departments relating to the situation and was in frequent telephone communication with some of the principal parties to the dispute. He learned with great pleasure, first from the Prime Minister and then from Thomas, that the strike had ended, and also arranged to have Lloyd George come to him at the palace at the earliest possible moment with the full terms of the settlement.

Loss Totals Millions.

Business men are inclined to estimate the total loss to the nation through the strike as approximately $250,000,000, according to the Daily Mail, but it will be a long time before the cost is fully determined. The bills to be paid by the Government probably will amount to $5,000,000 for each day of the strike, covering a variety of services necessitated, in addition to the unemployment pay of those made idle by the stoppage, numbering more than 335,000.

The loss to industry is far greater. Perishable goods in many cases were destroyed; many works stopped operations, almost all export trade ceased, and orders were lost through the uncertain conditions. The railway men, who were out eight days, spent $15,000,000 strike pay, the emergency funds of the National Union of Railway men being depleted to that extent, and incurred besides many other expenses.

"THE Car of the Future will be a LIGHT-WEIGHT car!"

The Automotive Engineer says: "The feather-weight car of the future will roll up thirty to forty miles for every gallon of gasoline. It will register at least twenty thousand miles for each set of tires. It will turn upside-down all existing tables of car-performance and service!"

"It will not depend upon bulk for its durability, nor upon weight for its riding ease—but upon advanced structural design and new materials—upon balance, proportion and spring suspension."

"All excess weight will be left in the foundry to be used for flatirons or for other products in which weight will not tax upkeep, retard performance or shorten the life of the car."

"The motor of today is a high-powered motor only because it is forced to pull an excess load that is just as unnecessary as a lead filling in the saddle of a horse. Compared with this power plant, the motor in the car of less than a thousand pounds will seem like a miniature."

"The cars of the country now are hauling at least five million tons of weight more than will be hauled by the same number of cars when the car of the future comes into its own."

At the last meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers

William B. Stout, Consulting Engineer, The United Aircraft Engineering Corporation, said:

"We should have a 900-pound, 5-passenger car that will be a better riding car than any now on the market. This will be made possible through war experiments for airplane construction, and the engine will be of 15-horsepower, 6-cylinder, weight 120 pounds. This car should give 30 to 40 miles on a gallon of fuel. The problems are in unsprung weight and axles and drives."

Henry M. Crane, Vice-President and Chief Engineer of the Wright-Martin Aircraft Corporation, said:

"The trend is toward lighter cars. The closed bodies will be made in increased proportion. There will be a greater mileage per gallon of fuel. Maintenance must be made less of a problem for the car owner."

"Excess weight is helping to keep the number of cars scrapped each year above the million mark."

"Excess weight is responsible for the fact that tires are pounding out quickly instead of wearing out s-l-o-w-l-y."

"Excess weight is causing enormous and unnecessary drains on an already failing gasoline supply."

"The tide of development in motor transportation flows irresistibly in the direction of the car of greater economy of operation, greater ease of handling, better riding qualities—the car that will impose a smaller tax on its owner and upon the communities whose roads it travels—The Car of the Future will be a Light-weight car!!"

Chronic Rheumatism Is Not Dangerous

It is, However, Very Painful, and If Not Properly and Promptly Treated the Trouble will Return and Eventually Cripple You

Chronic Rheumatism affects the hips, shoulders, knees and other large joints. Sometimes it is confined to just one joint. Again it may travel from one part to another part of the body.

The attacks come and for weeks there is no respite of the trouble—the patient is seemingly well. The pains return, however, and unless the proper treatment is used, the sufferer becomes a rheumatic cripple.

If you are now nursing a rheumatic knee, shoulder or some other joint, or have suffered in the past from this trouble, you should do something at once to prevent future attacks.

There is no treatment better suited for the relief of Chronic Rheumatism than Prescription C-2223. This treatment contains some of the most valuable medicinal ingredients known to the medical profession; in fact, it was for years used by a successful doctor.

Prescription C-2223 is supplied in concentrated liquid form to be taken in small doses. It acts directly on the blood—eliminating all the impurities that are causing the aches and pains.

As it is very important that the liver be active and the bowels open, 2223 Liver Pills are recommended for use in connection with the Liquid Prescription Treatment.

So great is the faith of the manufacturers in Prescription C-2223 that they will refund the price paid for two $1.50 bottles, if satisfactory relief is not secured by the patient.

Your druggist should be able to supply you with Prescription C-2223 at $1.50 a bottle; 2223 Liver Pills at 25c; or the 2223 Laboratory, Memphis, Tenn., will send both prepaid on receipt of $1.75. Write for sample of Pills and leaflet.

PARIS, Oct. 6.—Germany has delivered to Gen. Dupont, commander of the interallied mission at Berlin, a memorandum declaring that it has recalled Gen. von der Goltz, commander of the German troops in the Baltic provinces and Lithuania, has stopped pay, supplies and munitions to the German troops there and is doing everything possible to bring about the withdrawal of the German soldiers in accordance with the demand of the Supreme Council.

Gen. von Eberhard has been appointed in place of Gen. von der Goltz to take charge of the evacuation.

CARRILLO AN ADORED BUT UNKISSED HERO

Actor Is Delightful as Dressmaking St. Anthony in
"Lombardi, Ltd."

By RICHARD L. STOKES.
SADIE the virtuous shopgirl herself would be abashed at the spectacle of Tito Lombardi, wealthy but pure, young and beautiful, whom fate tries to tempt by casting him as a fashionable dressmaker, adored by voracious mannikins and ravenous customers. Nobly he repels their importunities, but even St. Anthony had his moments of despair.
"An employer he is not safe from these-a working girls!" exclaims Tito, sorely beset in one hectic crisis. However, heaven will protect the employing man, and the hero assures us that he has never swerved so far upon the primrose path as even to permit himself to be kissed.

With such satire did "Lombardi, Ltd.," latest of the smart comedies by Frederick and Fannie Hatton to reach St. Louis, regale a big audience at the Shubert-Jefferson Theater last night. In the second act Daisy Maloney, aged 17, whose notions of life have been acquired at the movies, begins to wonder, after she has worked at Lombardi's shop
two weeks, whether she is living up to what she believes must be the expectations of her fascinating employer.

"Mr. Lombardi," she whimpers,
"what's the use of putting it off?
What's got to be has got to be. I knew when I came here I'd have to undergo the things all girls has to who wants to get anywhere in the world. But I don't care. I want a career, and I want to see life—like the movie shows. Don't restrain yourself, Mr. Lombardi—let the true nature of the employer of young girls come out of you. You may kiss me. I'm yours to command," and Daisy flings her arms about her employer.

"Muriel, Yvette—everybody—come-a here queek!" yells the Joseph of the shears, flinging her off.
"Take her away!" And he advises
Daisy to go to confessional.

Tito is kissed at last.
It is difficult to prevent so miraculously platonic a hero from lapsing into absurdity, but this feat is precisely what is accomplished by that charming actor, Leo Carrillo. Under his touch Tito becomes convincing as an exemplar of chivalry and manliness; he is lovable, delightful and overflowing with Latin sweetness of disposition. He has a rich savor of humor, and nine-tenths of the merriment of the play is due to his liquid, bilingual volubility, spiced with diverting mishaps in American slang, and emphasized by Italian gar-rulity of shrugging shoulders and facial contortions. Carrillo is an ideal physical embodiment of the part, he himself being of Spanish descent.

Without his fine characterization of Tito, there would be little left of the play. The story is hackneyed enough. Tito, who works in beautiful fabrics as a musician does in lovely tones, is too absorbed in his art to look into the collateral of those who seek credit, with the result that he becomes bankrupt. At the same time he loses his sweetheart, who, chilled perhaps by his kissless courtship, runs off to California with the villain. This worthy is of course a "man about town" and a stock broker—trust any playwright for that. Inevitably a moneyed Samaritan turns up at the critical moment and likewise a second sweetheart, thanks to whose offices the audience has the gratification of beholding those vestal masculine lips amply saluted at last.

Rich Display of Gowns.
The cast is very good; piquant Marie Colebrook, with her upturned nose and ingenious eyes, carrying off second honors by her pretty comedy in the part of the disillusioned Daisy Maloney. Lillian Franklin is funny as a gum-chewing model, fasting to preserve her contours, and lamenting what's the use of having a shape
"if you can't take it out to eat?"
Italian Bosworth takes with amusing melancholy the part of Tito's harassed bookkeeper. Margery Card is Lombardi's assistant, who finally initiates him into the raptures of occupation. Lillian Brennan is excellent as Tito's faithful forewoman. Junoesque Ethel Wilson, as a showgirl, will be remembered as the merry widow in "Leave It to Jane," of last season; and Louis Calhern, as the "vermicelli king" who rescues Tito from ruin, was formerly with the Park Theater stock company.
Ina Rorke gives a burlesque of the woman customer who bullies the models and wishes to be made beautiful despite adipose tissue.

No one expects the Hattons to write a play without some indecerous episodes, and these are not altogether wanting in "Lombardi, Ltd." But compared with such sea-sory things as their own "Upstairs and Down," to say nothing of Cosmo Hamilton's "Scandal," the present comedy is unexpectedly free from vulgarity. It is funny all the way through, with unexpected turns of dialogue and action. The feminine contingent of last night's audience reveled in the display of gowns which the story made it logical to introduce.

"Pollyanna" Brings Sermon of Happiness to St. Louis for Fourth Time.
The philosophy that the source of all happiness is within is being preached in St. Louis for the fourth time since Pollyanna, "the glad girl," stepped from Eleanor Porter's book onto the stage. The theater is the American; the engagement, one week.

Audiences always have found pleasure in "Pollyanna" without committing themselves to approbation of its injunction never to see anything but silver linings. The work of Patricia Collinge in the title parole gave the play security in its first years. Her absence from companies visiting St. Louis during the last two years has, without aspersion upon those who have been substituted, detracted from the worth of the productions. Viola Harper, in the presented company, is a splendid Pollyanna visually, but lacks the modulation of voice and portrayal that first gave a quality of surpassing sweetness to the part.

The company is satisfactory, with one or two exceptions. George Allison as Pendleton, the hermit, seems bored, not only with life, but with his task in the play, some of the monotony of his lot being translated into the delivery of his lines. Otherwise
"Pollyanna" has vim.

The road to progress and to independence leads through Post-Dispatch WANTS, for many who have been wise enough to take advantage of them.

FARMER ASKS COURT TO HELP HIM KEEP SOBER ON PAROLE

POPULAR BLUFF, Mo., Oct. 6.— Dudley Lee, a farmer near Beaman, has asked Circuit Judge Shain to help keep him sober. He begged the Judge to issue an order forbidding any one to sell him liquor, promising to tell on the bootleggers that sell him whisky.
Lee agrees that a parole granted him several years ago, when he was sentenced to the State prison for stabbing his brother, shall be revoked if he gets drunk and fails to tell the Judge who sold him the whisky. Judge Shain caused the following notice to be published:
"The next party who lets Dudley Lee have any intoxicating liquor within the jurisdiction of the Circuit Court of Pettis County will be prosecuted to the extent of the law,

as Mr. Lee will either have to disclose the name of the party furnishing the liquor or have his parole revoked."

The God of Commerce

Mercury was the god of commerce—the messenger of merchandise. He was the life of business —in mythology.

Today, in reality, Advertising is the messenger of merchandise, the herald of enterprise, and a vital element of industry.

Advertising sells goods. It builds good-will, as good as gold.

Advertising sells a market standing and financial standing —creates values that extend beyond sales or dividends or distributions, and can only be measured in the larger transactions of refinancing, consolidations, ultimate consequences of larger growth. Advertising is not only a credit-builder, but represents a definite value-insurance which it constantly increases. It tends powerfully to standardize products, stabilize consumption, and guarantee future markets.

Advertising began as an afterthought of little business and became the forethought of big business.

SCHOOLS TO HONOR POET

Birthday of James Whitcomb Riley Will Be Celebrated Tomorrow.

The birthday of James Whitcomb Riley, the poet, which has been declared a legal holiday in his native State, Indiana, will be observed here tomorrow in the public schools with special exercises in the morning and in the evening with the presentation of a photoplay version of his famous poem, "Little Orphan Annie," at motion picture theaters in the West and South Ends of the city. Riley died July 22, 1916.

The moving pictures are being exhibited under the auspices of the Riley Celebration Committee, formed of local men and women who knew the poet. The committee has also arranged to exhibit the film at theaters in different parts of the city throughout the remainder of the week.

British to Immigrate to Mexico.

By The Associated Press.

EL PASO, Tex., Oct. 6.—Thousands of British subjects will immigrate into Mexico about the middle of October, according to Excelsior, a newspaper of Mexico City, copies of which have just reached here. The colonists will settle in Durango and Chihuahua. Arrangements for their passage into Mexico are to be made by Gen. Gritchay of the British army.

COMEDY HAS THE RUN ON LOCAL SCREENS

Bill Farnum in Western Play Is the Only "Heavy" on View.

Mabel Normand in "The Jinx" is a most amusing attraction at the Pershing, Kings, Junata, Shenandoah and Grand-Florian. It opens also at the Lindell today. In this swift-moving drama the sure-fire comedy star is a volunteer circus performer whose antics cause many complications which culminate when she turns loose all the wild animals.

In this animal scene there are thrills as well as comedy and the depiction of the panic which follows the liberation of the menagerie is most realistic. For pure comedy well exploited "The Jinx" has not often been equaled. All of the many superstitions to which circus people cling are made good use of in this excellent film play.

Anita Stewart and an all-star cast in "Her Kingdom of Dreams" is the prime attraction at the New Grand Central. Those who like this pretty star and the pretty pictures that go with her will find this one of the best of her recent offerings. As is usual with Anita Stewart productions the groupings and scenic embellishments are fine and the photography is excellent.

The story of the country girl who goes to the city and finds disillusionment after a season of specious happiness is not new, but its presentation in this instance is above the average. The central idea worked out in the climax is that a marriage arranged for purely business reasons may under certain circumstances turn out to be a real love match.

Wallace Reid has a most congenial role in "The Lottery Man," which opened at the West End Lyric yesterday, though the plot taxes credibility to the limit in being turned about a newspaper boosting of a lottery to increase its circulation. If such a scheme in violation of law were tried in real life the circulation would never get further than the postoffice. This particular lottery is a plan to put up an impecunious, but handsome reporter as the capital prize to be taken for better or for worse by the young woman holding the "lucky number." After the scheme is laid the heart-breaking reporter goes and falls in love with a young woman who hasn't bought a ticket. This causes amusing complications.

William Farnum in "The Last of the Duanees" is the attraction for the first half of the week at the Liberty. This is one of those vigorous and full-blooded Western plays in which Farnum has the role of an avenger. There are many exciting conflicts.

McCann's Third Talk On

Kellogg's KRUMBLES

THE human scrap heap is piling higher because man gives more care to his machines than to his body. He won't stand for rattles, squeaks, or wheezes when it comes to a car, but the driver's own "insides" may have more worn parts than the world ever hears of except in its annual increase of Bright's disease, heart disease, nerve disorders and cancer.

Oil, gas, water and grease deficiencies cause him trouble that he guards against. Food deficiencies don't bother him. Yet there is actually more authentic information on tap with respect to his own health than the kind that keeps his auto in running order.

It was a food deficiency disease that drove the German raider, Kronprinz Wilhelm from the seas, not the navies of her foes. The Germans could keep the ship in running order, but they couldn't keep her crew on their feet.

They had food aplenty—of the wrong kind—lots of white bread and sugar, butter, meat and canned vegetables, but the bread had been robbed by sifting and bolting. The meat did not supply the bolted parts. They were missing.

THE crew succumbed to the deficiency and barely made port at Newport News.

When the whole grain parts were put back into their diet they recovered, but the recovery was too late to put them back in the fight. They had been interned in the interval.

Hundreds of thousands of Americans are interning themselves every day with refined foods.

ON A wholesale scale they permit the debasement and impoverishment of their cereals and then blame High Heaven for the infirmities of their own making. The tragedy is reflected in the mortality statistics that no one heeds. When will it end?

Only when men cease to eat with their eyes! White breakfast foods may look nice, but the stomach can't see and the eyes don't help it to take out of foods the vitality that has already been removed. The farce of the thing is grim, too grim for tolerance.

This is my reason for enthusing over any food that has sense enough to keep the riches it inherits from the ground instead of sifting them into the waste heap of rejected food chemicals that lead to the waste heap of physical decay. Kellogg's Krumbles are a step forward.

It would be well for humanity to eat them for breakfast instead of the refined, exhausted, degenerated, demineralized and deficient products that, having been robbed themselves, proceed to rob those who foolishly consume them.

Alfred W. M. C.

We are so sure that you will be delighted with Kellogg's Krumbles that we make you this offer: Buy a package of Krumbles from your grocer; eat all you wish; if you are not entirely satisfied he will refund your money.

Sure ReliefNEGRO KILLED IN PISTOL FIGHT

Texas Posse Finds About 90 Alleged to Have Been Gambling.
By the Associated Press.
HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 6.—In a pistol fight between Sheriff T. A. Binford, with six deputies and approximately 90 men in alleged gambling game at Goose Creek yesterday, one negro was killed and 44 others arrested.
The sheriff and his posse were in search of a negro charged with having killed another when they came upon the alleged game in an old church building. The negroes opened fire upon the officers.

ONE OFFICER KILLED, 3 HURT, IN TWO AIRPLANE CRASHES

Langley Field Commander Meets Death When Craft Hits Tree Near Philadelphia.
By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6.—Fifteen minutes after Col. Townsend Dodd, commander of Langley Field, Va., had been killed in landing at the Bustleton Aviation Field near here, yesterday, a second airplane made a bad landing and three other army officers were injured, two of them, Maj. M. Davis and Second Lieut. Charles R. Colt, seriously.

The two airplanes were on their way to Mineola, L. I., from where it was planned to start 80 army aviators on a flight across the continent on Wednesday. Maj. Davis in a large Martin bombing plane, was to have made the initial "hop-off."
Col. Dodd, in landing, crashed crashed into a tree. Sgt. G. E. Hess escaped with slight bruises.
Maj. Davis, who was piloting the second machine from Washington, apparently overshot the field and landed on rough ground. The plane stuck its nose in the ground and toppled over.
Col. Dodd served with the Expeditionary Forces in France as chief of staff for the air service of the First Army. Air service records show that Col. Dodd was the second or third American army officer to become a commissioned aviator. He was a native of Illinois.

COUNCIL OF NATIONAL DEFENSE REPORTS ON PRICE PROBLEMS

Investigators Say Productive Powers Have Not Been Utilized Fully; Remedies Proposed.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—After an investigation of the high cost of living problem, the Council of National Defense finds:

That the nation's productive powers have not been fully utilized since the armistice.
That too few goods, notably necessities of life, have been produced and that even some of these goods have been withheld from the market.
That the high cost of living is due in part to unavoidable war waste and increase of money and credit.
That there has been and is considerable profiteering, intentional and unintentional.
The council believes that the remedies for the situation are:
To produce more goods.
To stamp out profiteering.
To enforce vigorously present laws and promptly to enact such further laws as are necessary.
To bring about better co-operation and method in distributing and marketing goods.
To keep both producer and consumer fully informed as to what goods are available, so that production may anticipate the country's demand.

PLAN AID TO FOREIGN JEWS

Committee Would Form $10,000,000 Corporation for Relief.
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Plans to organize a reconstruction corporation, capitalized at $10,000,000, to aid in the economic rehabilitation of Jewry abroad, were made at a meeting yesterday of the Joint Distribution Committee of the American fund for Jewish War Sufferers. The corporation, it was announced, hopes eventually to "restore the Jews in Europe to their former self-supporting basis."

Pending the formation of the new corporation, the committee decided upon two preliminary steps—the first to appropriate $200,000 for the organization of an express company for forwarding packages to Poland and the second to appropriate $200,000 for the immediate purchase of food to be sent abroad.

SUNDAY ICE DELIVERIES MADE

Due to Shortage, Consumers' Saturday Supply Was Insufficient.
Ice concerns made regular deliveries yesterday, because, due to the ice shortage, consumers have only been able to get a fraction of their customary supply day by day, and it was not large enough to last over Sunday. The shortage, as is known, has lasted for a week.
Sunday ice peddlers, called "jagers" by the regular icemen, could not buy from the manufacturers yesterday, while the regular wagons were making deliveries.

only a water laxative really flushes

WATER is the greatest cleansing agent known to man.

"Dry cleaning" may be effective for suits and dresses, but it is insufficient to rid your intestinal tract of accumulated disease-breeding waste matter.

It requires a water laxative to flush your system completely.

If you are constipated you need a water laxative—an effective flushing agent like Pluto Water, which is America's physic.

Pluto Water gently, pleasantly, but positively and completely flushes the small and large bowel and restores your entire eliminative system to its normal activity.

Municipal health authorities have been quick to recognize the undoubted sanitary advantages of flushing as compared with dry sweeping.

Pluto Water is bottled at French Lick Springs, Indiana, and is a recognized curative agent for kidney, liver and stomach troubles, rheumatism and nervous disorders.

Your physician prescribes it.

Pills, powders, tablets, and other "dry" cathartics cannot give you the benefit of the internal bath that the colon needs at regular intervals to rid itself of poisonous accumulations.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6.—Wearing a Distinguished Service Cross, a Croix de Guerre and a Pershing citation badge, Capt. Elkan Voorsanger, first American rabbi to go overseas as a chaplain in the United States army and former rabbi of St. Louis, arrived in San Francisco today to visit his family. When war was declared Rabbi Voorsanger left his pulpit in St. Louis and hurried overseas. Serving as chaplain with the 77th Division, he won quick promotion, finally receiving a commission as Captain. He was with the division through the battles of Argonne, Marne and Chateau-Thierry. When the division was sent Rabbi Voorsanger was placed in charge of all Jewish welfare activities in France. He is a son of the Rabbi Jacob Voorsanger, who was one of the foremost Jewish leaders of the West.

Capt. Voorsanger served as associate rabbi of Temple Shaare Emeth, Lindell boulevard and Vandeventer avenue, for two years, resigning in February, 1917. His resignation followed closely upon a New Year sermon in which he proposed to democratize the congregation by abolishing the pew-rent system, in vogue 50 years. His progressive ideas were not favorably received by the congregation, which was generally regarded as conservative.

D'ANNUNZIO'S SOLDIERS CONFIDENT OF WINNING

Flume Ablaze With Flags and Streets Filled With Marching Soldiers.

By the Associated Press.

FIUME, Sunday, Sept. 28.—Flume is ablaze with flags, her streets are filled with marching soldiers and her air is vibrant with the confidence felt by the men, who, under command of Capt. Gabriele D'Annunzio, marched into the city and still firmly hold it.

Italy's flag, with that of the city of Fiume, predominate, the only foreign banner being the French tricolor floating over the French naval headquarters. Pennants bearing the words "Viva Italia," and Capt. D'Annunzio's slogan "Fiume or Death," mingled with the red, white and green of Italy and the violet blue and yellow of Fiume.

The correspondent reached Fiume last night from Trieste, being buried in the coal in the tender of a locomotive for the last part of the journey to avoid guards along the way.

Soldiers are everywhere in the city, motor trucks lurch through the streets carrying men from one point to another and hundreds of troops may be seen at any hour marching with the greatest precision and with the strictest military discipline, the whole scene being similar to that to be encountered at a great Italian military post.

Headquarters in Palace. Capt. D'Annunzio's headquarters are established in the Governor's palace, which has been converted into a veritable general staff building, filled with different departments. The private office of the post aviator overlooks the city. The building is the finest in Fiume, having beautiful sculptures, elaborate staircases and magnificent furniture.

Displayed in the streets are the arms of the most important cities of Italy, while in the Piazza Dante, the real center of Fiume, is a painting of Capt. D'Annunzio, who is shown wearing his five rows of decorations. Portraits of King Victor Emmanuel, Gen. Diaz, Commander in Chief of the Italian armies, and Giuseppe Garibaldi, the immortal Italian patriot, are shown everywhere.

Although no news is reaching the city from the outside world, the Italians here are confident of winning their fight. There seems to be plenty of food. Bread, which is not served in other parts of Italy, is on restaurant tables and is displayed in large quantities, although prices are high. The city has an air of business and despite the presence of thousands of soldiers, the citizens are performing their daily work as if that city were not attracting the attention of the whole world.

Riding, stowed away in the coal, the correspondent succeeded in evading a strong cordon of carabinieri, which traveled on the train to prevent any one from making his way into the city. The correspondent kept himself buried in the coal from the time the train left Giordano until it reached Fiume, although nearly suffocated with coal and oil.

All passenger coaches were unhooked from the train at Abazia, only the engine, tender and baggage cars completing the trip into Fiume. The correspondent learned that this was the procedure to be followed before he left Trieste. The baggage car was loaded with milk and provisions for the population of Fiume. Deep silence brooded over the city as the train slowly made its way into the Fiume station. There the correspondent alighted and found several volunteer soldiers, who had managed to avoid the carabinieri. One youth said he had traveled 42 hours without sleeping or eating to get to Fiume.

When the engineer and trainmen saw the men they had brought into the city, they laughed heartily and shouted: "Viva Fiume," "Viva D'Annunzio."

YELLOW FEVER ABOUT STOPPED

By the Associated Press.

PANAMA, Saturday, Oct. 4.—Sanitary measures which have terminated the outbreak of yellow fever at Guayaquil, have practically eradicated the yellow fever scourge from the earth, according to Major-General William C. Gorgas, former surgeon-general of the United States Army, who returned today after directing the fight against yellow fever in West Coast localities. Gen. Gorgas said that Guayaquil was the last large center where yellow fever had been epidemic, and that the nature of the disease is such that the few cases which may occur in small, remote communities will burn out for lack of increasing persons who are not immune to the disease.

No cases of yellow fever have occurred at Guayaquil in the last three months.

FRANCE SEEKS MILLIONS FOR RUINED REGIONS

$300,000,000 Already Spent in Rebuilding, Nation Looks to America, Tardieu Says.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch. PARIS, Oct. 6.—From Andre Tardieu, sometimes called Premier Clemenceau's "other self," the correspondent has obtained facts and figures showing France's Herculean efforts to restore the devastated regions.

Tardieu still holds the title of Commissioner-General of Franco-American affairs which he held during the war, but the bureau he conducted under that name has dwindled. "Life has not grown simpler since the war ended," he admitted, smiling.

Two questions were asked him relating to the ravaged regions: "What has been done?" and "What remains to be done?" "We have spent enormous sums," he replied, "and must find hundreds of millions of francs more. The budget of 1918 combining the ordinary budget and the military and emergency expenses totaled more than $5,000,000,000 francs (normally $11,000,000,000). The budget for 1919 is full of question marks."

Huge Losses in War. He was asked for details of the expenditures in the liberated regions and he directed his secretary to prepare a careful statement from which the following facts are taken, the normal exchange rate of five francs to $1 being used in compilation:

Losses by the war were to houses and real estate $6,800,000,000; to agriculture and forests 25,000,000,000 francs ($7,000,000,000); to industries 52,000,000,000 francs ($16,000,000,000); to transportation 9,000,000,000 francs ($2,800,000,000). Counting contributions to the war this gives a total of 124,000,000,000 francs ($26,800,000,000). This is also the estimate of Minister of Finance Klotz. Tardieu's statement adds the loss to pensions, annuities, etc., 75,000,000,000 francs ($15,000,000,000) or a grand total of 209,000,000,000 francs ($41,800,000,000).

Against this great amount France has managed to raise $300,000,000 which makes instantly apparent the task remaining. Yet the figures of restored property are impressive. Under the first head comes property removed by the enemy whose fate is seen in the following table:

Tons of industrial material stolen and since identified, 450,000 Tons of similar material already restored to the owners, 120,000 Tons ready to be loaded at the end of August, 60,000 All together, 1,600,000,000 worth of stolen property has been recovered. Following this comes a statement of the work of reconstruction proper, including the following: "Out of 1267 miles of railroad 209 miles had been restored to use at the end of August and also 420 miles, 641 miles of canals. Of highways 640 miles have been rebuilt, requiring 65,000 tons of various kinds of materials."

550,000 Houses Damaged. When it comes to houses the showing is not as good. Only 60,000 of 150,000 damaged houses are completely restored have been made habitable, whereas 15,000 temporary lodgings have been built and 60,000 others are in process of building for temporary shelters. It is added that 48 of 110 works of art have been restored. In relation to agriculture the most strenuous efforts seem to have been made as can be seen from the following table:

Hectares of tillable land spoiled by the war, 1,800,000 Hectares now under cultivation, 400,000 Hectares from which dangerous projectiles have been removed, 200,000 Square meters of barbed wire removed, 10,000,000 Agricultural appliances replaced, 200,000 Heads of cattle replaced, 200,000 Trenches filled.

Added to these details concerning the farming country comes this picturesque one, "55,000,000 cubic meters of trenches have been filled up." Such is the picture in figures of France's self help to which M. Tardieu's statement added a somewhat pathetic touch. "Life is returning everywhere with as much intensity as the circumstances permit." Billions of francs are still being poured into the "red regions" while French leaders look to America to furnish help. But so far as is known here no one has solved the problem of adequate American assistance. Some enterprises have encountered obstacles in the French law. For example, the American Chamber of Commerce in Paris investigated the possibilities and found that municipalities were unable to give financial guarantees without reference to the Council of State. The Chamber of Commerce is continuing to study the situation.

"We hope still to be the means of helping those unfortunate," said its President, Walter Berry, "and will co-operate in any movement in America that promises to surmount the difficulties and meet the needs. I favor some plan likely to encourage French manufacturers and stimulate French production."

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Wilson and the Senators.
 To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 There has been a lot of silly talk indulged in, to the effect that the President should have placed some United States Senators on the delegation to the Paris peace conference. Such a selection would have been altogether improper. The President at that conference was making a case to be submitted to the Senate as a court to pass upon it. No judge is allowed to try his own case.
 Had Lodge, Johnson and Borah, not to mention Reed, who has disqualified himself to pass upon any question in which the President is connected with, been members of that conference not one of them would have been permitted to vote upon its ratification by the Senate; they would have been already impeached and formed an opinion in the case, which in all jurisdictions is grounds for peremptory challenge and disqualifies Judge or jury from serving in the case.
 We were also wrong in censuring the President for appealing, last fall, for a Democratic Congress, since the Round Robin signed before Congress convened by 35 Senators proves that Mr. Wilson knew better than what he was to be confronted with.
JAMES A. RAY.

Appreciated.
 To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 It was with great pleasure that I read your editorial in Sunday's Post on the American Prohibitionist in Europe. I must say it is one fine roaring for these fanatics and a few more of these fine editorials will make them sit up and take notice.
 Hoping to see more of them and wishing you luck in this work, I am

"A Real American Paper."
 To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 I think yours is a real American paper, and you are not afraid to stand up for American rights. Think it about time for the people to tell Congress they have played politics long enough and now get down to business and adopt the league of nations as it stands, which the people will compel them to sooner or later.
 The unrest and dissatisfaction of the people, not only in the cities but in the country, in regard to the stand a few boneheads in Congress have taken is going to cause a lot of trouble if they don't get to business and sign the peace treaty and league of nations soon.

Dangers of Railroad Crossings.
 To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 Reading of the horrible fate of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. F. Tanner moves me to write our experience of a few weeks ago. My husband with two other passengers and myself were riding in our automobile when we were driving about 12 or 15 miles an hour when we approached a railroad crossing (this crossing is in town). The view both ways was obstructed by empty coal cars on the first track, leaving an opening only wide enough for two vehicles to pass each other. The front wheels and hood of our automobile were on the second track when I noticed the train coming over the bridge about the length of one car away from us. I screamed and my husband (who was at the wheel) killed the engine and the automobile rolled backward off the tracks as the train whizzed by on the second track.
 After I screamed, the engineer blew the whistle, which was after he saw our automobile on his track. A fine time to blow a whistle, but that would have vindicated him in the event we were killed because people living in the neighborhood would have testified they heard the whistle. I know this case of a negligent engineer is an exception because most trains begin their din before they reach a town and keep it up almost continuously until they are past.
 Too often one reads "Automobile Struck by Train, Occupants Killed." Dead men tell no tales and the common verdict is "speeding," "racing with a train." Speeding, yes, on the part of the train which has the right of way.
 I ask, why are empty cars allowed to stand on tracks obstructing the view, and this in town where traffic is always more or less heavy and where trains do not even reduce their speed? Safety first, indeed.
STANTON, ILL.

Same as in Plutarch's Day.
 To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 Yes, let the law be enforced, as a writer in this column said the other day. But it might be well if those charged with enforcing the law would keep in mind the saying attributed by Plutarch to a friend of Solon, the Athenian lawgiver, to the effect that laws were like spiders' webs: for, like them, they caught the poor and weak, but were broken by the rich and strong. The world has progressed quite a bit in 2500 years, not only materially, but morally and spiritually; but, nevertheless, some of those sayings of the men long ago sound singularly modern when read today.
JAMES H. PRATT.

TENEMENTS AND HOUSING PROBLEM.

A housing association with an advisory committee of clergy, philanthropists and business men and $2,000,000 capital has been formed in St. Louis. To build homes and sell them on terms within the reach of workers is the paramount purpose of the association. No purpose could be more commendable under present conditions. The city of property-owning workers is a city of stability. The desirability of the freeholder's status is even to this date recognized by laws that make it a condition of eligibility to important positions. How far, however, will a housing movement limited to the construction of detached structures and providing only for those workers who can immediately comply with conditions of purchase go in meeting the urgent problem St. Louis is expected to face in early months?

Of course, we may assume that the $2,000,000 will serve as a sort of revolving fund, to be replenished, as houses are sold on liberal credit, by the transfer of evidences of indebtedness to banking institutions. But it is one unit of the capital from which possibilities may be calculated. At present prices for sites, materials and labor, how can fit habitations be built for less than $4000 apiece? We see tiny, new-built bungalows with modern improvements offered at much more. At $4000 each the first unit of capital will construct 500 dwellings, enough to accommodate families numbering 2000 or 2500 persons.

But Jackson Johnson, president of the Municipal Housing Association, says that 15,000 new workers must be housed at an early date, which may mean 60,000 or 75,000 persons, if they have families. As a matter of fact, he believes that it is only a matter of a few months before 200,000 of new population must be provided for.

Any organized movement for supplementing haphazard individual initiative in meeting the problem is important, but must not the housing association consider the erection of model tenements and community service as a model landlord, as well as the erection of detached dwellings, for which responsibility ends with sale?

As much as residence in single dwellings and homeownership are to be encouraged, residence in such close association as to lessen the expense for heating, care of premises and other necessary things is highly attractive to many in these times of unprecedented living costs. Without sunny model tenements having the best in sanitation and convenient appointments, how is the great need of the future to be met, and if model tenements are built, why should not an accessible site for some of them be selected in the submerged district between Twelfth and Grand?

In solving the problem of more dwellings, an organization that starts with $2,000,000 capital can help to solve that other problem of depreciating, shabby streets. One experimental model tenement in that district would, we believe, be sure of a success leading to the construction of many more.

A STATESMAN.

Mr. Taft refuses to weary of well doing. In the present bright prospects for an honest, acceptable ratification of the peace treaty the former President appears in the role of a tireless, constructive statesman, with which he has been so admirably identified since the cause of permanent peace became a tangible hope of mankind.

With a volume of achievement to his credit that assured him a place in history, a less purposeful man would have been content to be a looker-on, while one of smaller caliber would have yielded to the temptation of partisanship and entered lustily into the petty movement of obstruction. But instead of following a colorless or antagonistic course, Mr. Taft has risen to the heights of distinguished, unselfish service.

It is a great pity that his example has not inspired other leaders of his party to join with him in his disinterested efforts. There can be no doubt, however, that the influence of Mr. Taft's work for peace will live far beyond the present times and the present issue. He has established a fine precedent by putting into actual practice the faith so widely professed of citizenship first, partisanship second. It is a precedent which will enlist men of vision in the crises of future years.

"INEXORABLE FACTS."

In the first speech he made on getting back to California to reply to President Wilson's discussion of the treaty Senator Hiram Johnson referred satirically to the War Department's recommendation for an army of 500,000 and wanted to know why such a force would be necessary if the League of Nations was to bless the world with universal peace. He then sententiously observed, "They won't get any such army at all."

Now, the people of California have heaped many honors on Hiram Johnson. They still believe in him. He is unquestionably the State's most potent political figure. And in his violent opposition to the League of Nations he has invoked repeatedly the "inexorable facts," before which, he insists, intelligence will always bow. Well, another citizen of California has just spoken, one whom the citizens of California doubtless admire, as does the rest of the world. In point of world service during the last five years there can be no comparison between Herbert Hoover and Hiram Johnson. The achievements of Mr. Hoover, both practical and humanitarian, are past all accounting. And as regards European conditions, social, economic and industrial, Mr. Hoover speaks with a knowledge and authority which probably no other American possesses. Certainly an intelligent man, earnestly seeking the "inexorable facts" about Europe would consult Mr. Hoover in preference to Mr. Johnson.

Addressing the students of Stanford University Mr. Hoover said that "if the League of Nations is to break down, then we must at once prepare to fight." Others have said the same thing, but the judgment of no other American on this question is so thoroughly informed as is that of Mr. Hoover. In proof of his verdict he related how the reactionary elements of Europe have been gaining ground in the last few months while the progressives, or idealists, who were hoping for a Europe freed from the dreadful liability of war, have been losing strength. Specifically, he pointed to the fact of a renaissance German militarism which now has a well officered, disciplined army of half a million on the Polish border, an army which is defeating the Berlin Government, and which, sooner or later, will invade Poland if the League of Nations falls. That is only one of Europe's powder magazines. There are many others.

In opposing the War Department's request for an army of 500,000 Senator Johnson is in accord, we believe, with public sentiment. But should his opposition to the League of Nations prevail, should his leadership succeed in defeating the project, instead of an army of 500,000, which will cost a billion dollars a year to maintain, we shall have to spend many times that sum on an army many times as big. That is the conclusion of common sense, and it is the judgment of Herbert Hoover, based on an intimate knowledge of the "inexorable facts" which Hiram Johnson professes to revere, but which, in point of truth, he ignores.

That 10-hour day which the farmers recommended as a cure for the general unrest is utterly impracticable except for those who want to work for a living.

MUSIC FOR THE TIMES.

A good friend of the Post-Dispatch thinks he has hit upon a remedy for the unrest of the times. It is music, a new yet old kind—long meter, he calls it, solemn, sacred music. "Gentlemen and ladies of America," he says, "will you please try it. Tune up your throats and your harps and other musical instruments. Try it for one week. Fill the air with the kind of music that means 'Big You, Little I,' instead of 'Big I, Little You.' Forget your creed, your party, your fault-finding, and let us all sing a new song."

Yes, as the correspondent says, music can work wonders. The trouble is, as the news shows, the disturbers of the world's peace appear to be doing most of the singing. A few days ago the cable informed us that the mass meeting in Albert Hall, London, which started the railroad strike that tied Great Britain up, sang "The Red Flag" for a whole hour before the speaking began. It reminds one how the Parisians, in 1789, were singing the Carmagnole and other new songs which the anti-revolutionists had nothing to match.

We have our Community Singing, and it ought to be kept up through the winter and broadened in scope. We have our patriotic songs and other good music, long meter and short, gay and sober. By all means let us sing and sing again. And here is an opportunity for the good American composer to give us something to sing about that shall outdo anything the world disturbers can compose. Some cold-blooded philosopher asserted that the world will not be saved by love. It certainly will not be saved by hate and discord. And by singing good songs together we shall learn to think together, to feel together and to enlarge our sympathies. Let us show that the Stars and Stripes can inspire as hearty a singing as any red flag. Drop the jazz for a while and try the charm of fine song.

While contending for a share of the profits labor should not neglect its share of the work.

WOMEN PROTECTED BY THE LEAGUE.

In Article XXIII of the covenant of the League of Nations it is provided that the League shall have "general supervision over the execution of agreements with regard to the traffic in women and children, and the traffic in opium and other dangerous drugs."

The meaning of this provision has been violently twisted to imply that the diplomats who prepared the covenant recognized the traffic in women and intended that the League should recognize and regulate that traffic. The Kansas City Star upholds this position, taken by one of its women readers.

There have been and will be agreements between nations with regard to this traffic. Such agreements have invariably been so worded as to make it extremely difficult, if not impossible, for the scoundrels who carry on this traffic to succeed in it. It is recognized as illegal and heavy penalties are attached to it.

But with no such supervision as this article in the League covenant is intended to provide, slackness in carrying out an agreement on the part of the officials of any nation can only be the subject of a protest on the part of others. With the covenant in force, any nation which discovered that officials of another nation were winking at or encouraging this illegal traffic could call the attention of the League to the matter and have the remedy applied. In this way women would be far better protected than they can be under the present lack of system or organization, in which every nation's officials act without fear of supervision.

FUTURE OF THE CAHOKIA MOUNDS

The wonder of the Cahokia Mound and lesser mounds in its vicinity is said to be threatened by an option looking to industrial utilization which has been taken from the Ramey family for 500 acres, including their site, on the Collinsville road.

It is difficult to imagine any modern industrial concern which would injure or change these astonishing earthen pyramids. Rather they are an asset which any enlightened manufacturing company, in laying out a plant with regard to the comfort and health of employees and attractiveness to the public, would naturally seek to protect from the elements and to enhance in every way in value. A company which, despite their archeological significance and the popular as well as scientific interest that attaches to them, would deliberately destroy them is a company whose business policies would lack the breadth and intelligence necessary to success.

But an industrial setting is not the proper setting for these great works by vanished peoples, who inhabited this region before we came. To look down with smoke-blinded eyes from the huge mass of the Monk's Mound on clustered chimneys, to have the ears assailed by clanking machinery, would destroy its spell for the thoughtful visitor, would be a grotesque invasion of its venerable surroundings.

Probably it is not proposed to establish a saw mill or planing mill there, it being late for those industries. Probably no stockyard is contemplated, industries in that line being well provided for some distance away. But what sort of activities are planned for the locality on which, along with the thoughtful visitor, uncomputed centuries look down from the tops of these mounds?

We have too few wonders of this sort in America. A plan to create a State park of the site of the Monk's Mound and its sister mounds gained some favor in a recent Illinois Legislature. Possibly but for the war it might have been given sanction. Something should be done to preserve them as an asset of the public. To convert their site into a railroad yard, or the uses of a tannery or foundry or cannery factory would be a desecration for which the people of St. Louis, as well as of Illinois, would be held in reproach.

JUST A MINUTE

MR. ANTWERP'S OPINION.

"It looks to me as if need of a league of nations had arisen while the Senate is hemming and hawing." Mr. Antwerp said.

"The Italians are seemingly bent upon holding Flume, no matter what the Paris conference decides ought to be done with that coveted port. If they are to persist in that attitude against the will of the conference, something will have to be done about it. Who is going to take it upon himself to do that? Certainly none of the European countries, already weary of war, cares to step into the breach."

"Roumania, so we are told, is fairly pillaging Bessarabia. The Bessarabians are helpless. The European Powers are in exactly the same plight with respect to that matter. None of them wants to make the Rumanians behave themselves."

"What is the answer? Well, I have poked around in history a good deal. War, as we make it out, is not what Senator Reed thinks it is—an inevitable thing. It is only made to seem inevitable because we do nothing to prevent it. If it were not for organized society our own country would be in the throes of a great industrial war today. What prevents it? Exactly the same thing that we propose to have in the world as a whole. Some of these half-baked philosophers try to tell us that an international society is not like a national society. They make that out from the fact that a national society has been found practicable. The other thing has not been tried, so they blantly assert that it cannot be done. We may be sure there were plenty of people equally sure that a national society was impracticable before any such thing was perfected. These same people would warn us against it if it had not proved itself."

"Only a league of nations, in which we all join for the common good to police the world, can set Europe to rights at this time. Anything else would only provoke another more or less general conflict. An international society could handle the situation, and until we have one nothing can be done."

"I wish no one would say anything more about how Democrats and Republicans feel about this great civilizing step. Let us know how many friends of civilization there are in the United States Senate, and ask them to vote as such."

"We shudder to think of Boston without a police force. What about an unpoliced world?"

The pro-Germans can put the League of Nations over for the Not one of them is for it, and people are beginning to take notice of that significant fact.

He: Do you love me without any reservations?
 She: I am a Democrat.

Senator Reed says he differs with the President intellectually. Let's make it from.

SORROW MOTHS.

WHAT are my sorrows
 But silver-winged moths that eat
 My heart to tatters and flee
 Through the black night of Eternity,
 Leaving me to heal the wounds?

Oh, I think the tiny-wings
 Of the silver moth are glad of the Freedom, and speed to leave me That I become whole. Oh, in that Vain hand, I think I shall come Upon them, some far, far day,
 Flitting through the darkness,
 And I shall smile to think that I Had nurtured them and be content.

DOGS.

There seems to be less and less place in the world for dogs. They cannot run under automobiles as they used to run under wagons. They are incompatible with life in the city. You can keep a dog in the city, but it is work both for you and the dog. Dogs also suffer from the congestion of population in the country. They become more and more of a nuisance. In every rural community, as constituted in these latter days, somebody keeps sheep.

People who love dogs know these things. They have sought some solution by which dogs might be again adapted to life, which formerly had been great need of them. Col. Henry Hawes thought some years ago that possibly the destruction of all but high-grade dogs by taxation would do the trick. That is, fewer dogs and less resentment. He probably has not thought about it again since the proposal was made to the Missouri Legislature. There is as much affection for our dogs as for any other kind. Like the human race, which cannot solve its problem by exterminating low forms of the species, dogs must have a democracy. Kill the cur dogs, and the people who love them will kill the thoroughbreds.

So it looks black for dogs. Their place in life grows always more restricted, and that sinister figure, the dogcatcher, grows always bigger. The dog has had his day. Let us hope he enjoyed it. Evidently he did.

The Eagle and the Jackdaw.

An Eagle made a swoop from a high rock, and carried off a lamb. A Jackdaw, who saw the exploit, thinking that he could do the like, bore down with all the force he could muster upon a ram, intending to bear him off as a prize. But his claws becoming entangled in the wool, he made such a fluttering in his efforts to escape, that the Shepherd, seeing through the whole matter, came up and caught him, and having clipped his wings, carried him home to his children at nightfall. "What bird is this, father, that you have brought us?" asked the children. "Why," said he, "if you ask himself, he will tell you that he is an Eagle; but if you will take my word for it, I know him to be but a Jackdaw."—Aesop (520 B. C.).

B'r Cross, who is writing about the big baseball series for the New York Times, says in one of his stories that when the full volume of spontaneous uproar breaks, as it did at Cincinnati Wednesday, "it simply means that 21,000 intelligent folks have abandoned themselves to the wild delirium of unrestrained frenzy." Of course, there is no such thing as getting 21,000 unintelligent folk together for the purpose of determining if that would also be true of people of that sort. As a matter of fact, intelligence being pretty widespread among all of us who are permitted to be at large, we can't see what it has to do with it. Still, the New York Times may require strict differentiations for a differentiating public, and people who read the Times may want to know exactly what B'r Cross tells them. The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

A VINDICATED PHILOSOPHY.

From the San Francisco Call and Post.
MOST of the pacifists who used to say that all wars, without exception, were bad, recanted in favor of the late war with Germany, and some of them fell over themselves in their hurry to prove that they enjoyed bloodshed as much as anybody. In so far as they helped get the world out of the frying pan by helping it get rid of German imperialism, they were quite justified. But getting rid of German imperialism was not the same thing as establishing a perfect world. The main pacifist position, which was that no war pays even the victor anything like the cost of waging it, has been vindicated, as has also the pacifist argument that if civilization chooses to keep on having wars it will soon cease to be civilized.

For civilization today is as near to tottering into ruin as it well can be. Even if it manages to survive it would be difficult to prove that the world of today is as much worth living in as was that of the first decade of the century. One large injustice, it is true, has been wiped out, but on its ruins a score of lesser injustices have been erected. This has been done at a cost which even now we dare not reckon up. If Utopia had been offered us at such an expense it is doubtful if we would have taken it. To destroy the youth of a generation, to leave the young women of a generation husbandless or childless, to starve tens of thousands of women, children and aged, to fill the world with lies—this would have been too much to sacrifice, even though perfect happiness lay at the end of the road. But war exacted just this sacrifice and it gave us, in return, a mouthful of ashes. It is not men only that are dead; it is liberalism, tolerance, chivalry, generosity.

These are the fruits of battle, the rewards of victory. For this we laboriously and expensively prepared; to this end we educated our children and our public opinion; to bring about this result we glorified war and preserved it from disparagement. Even in the fact of it one would not say that this country or any country should have submitted to German tyranny, but German tyranny was not the only cause of the war, nor the only force in it that gladly resorted to mass slaughter as a political weapon. Mass slaughter, overt and threatened, has been a political weapon in Europe from time immemorial. It is the use of this argument that has been discredited—the old lie that wars are noble, necessary and productive of good. So far the pacifists were right.

THE TREATY AND POLITICS.

From the Boston Post.
THE failure of this Congress in "reconstruction" is emphasized by the announcement that no constructive measures will be attempted until the Senate disposes of the peace treaty. This follows Senator Penrose's statement that no new revenue legislation could be expected before the spring of 1921.

The peace treaty need not by itself place such a complete embargo on all other constructive legislation. The bottom cause of the holdup is not the treaty but the inability of the Republicans to command a working majority on any important measure. Mr. Penrose frankly admitted this fact, so far as legislation coming before the Senate Finance Committee is concerned.

The country may find in the Republican party's divisions on important domestic questions the reason why some of the leaders are looking so eagerly for a paramount issue in "Americanism" is already miles ahead of every other Republican in making himself the logical candidate. The treaty has become steeped in presidential politics.

THE LUDENDORFF AND VON TIRPITZ MEMOIRS

IF ENGLAND HAD SPOKEN, WAR WOULD HAVE BEEN AVOIDED, SAYS TIRPITZ

If She Had but Let Germany Know She Would Fight With France, Teuton Chauvinists Would Have Backed Down, Grand Admiral Declares.

By ALFRED VON TIRPITZ.

Grand Admiral of the German Navy.

THE outbreak of the war shattered

the German-British understanding which did not rest upon facts but upon diplomatic finessing.

Laymen may suppose that a great deal is accomplished by meeting at a negotiating board, exchanging compliments across it, explaining misunderstandings and holding out

prospects for the distant future.

These are the things on which rested

Bethmann-Hollweg's dream—understanding with England.

British policy has always made use of them to hoodwink others; but it only permits itself to be guided, at the issue of the negotiations, by the undiscovered realities which have been lying quietly under the table.

In the days of 1912 Bethmann was prevented from exchanging for English courtesies and bills drawn on the future, the only reality which led in our favor, the German battle fleet. This seeming failure of the Chancellor had visibly increased the prospects of a lasting and real understanding.

But the realities telling in England's favor should not have been overlooked. On the whole, the world believed the directions of the strongest power. We were the strongest opponent and just because of that we had to beware of going further than our actual interests absolutely required.

Those illusions in regard to England which in 1912 almost cost us

our defensive power at sea and would thereby have encompassed our gradual decline, now in 1914 suddenly endangered our peace. The motives which had occasioned England's loyalty to Germany and Austria during the Balkan wars of 1912-

1914 were idealized in Germany, and hence arose the belief that a Balkan war in which Austria herself took part could be localized to that stormy quarter of Europe.

Germany's Fear of England.

On July 8, the opinion prevailed

in the Foreign Office that if peace could not be preserved, and all believed then that it could be preserved, England would at once throw in her lot with our enemies without waiting to see the course of the war.

But the peaceful attitude of the British Foreign Office during the next few weeks, deceived the Beth-mann circle more and more. Even in the general state itself the opinion prevailed that England desired peace.

After the sending of the ultimatum to Serbia, Sir Edward Grey uttered the warning, "The situation is extremely serious and might very easily give rise to a war of the four great Powers." The wisdom of the Wilhelmstrasse chose to draw from this the assurance that although the four Powers, Germany, Austria, England and Russia might make war,

for the fifth great Power, England,

there was no danger of war.

Jagow and others strengthened this illusion in the Chancellor and even managed to implant it in the mind of the Emperor.

When on July 25, the fleet, then off Norway, received orders to return to home waters, the Emperor wished to send all battleships to the Baltic

in order not to irritate England. The Foreign Office concurred in this desire. The Kaiser at that time himself told the fleet commander very bluntly that doubts as to England's peaceful intentions were not even permissible and that therefore the whole fleet must be held in readiness to move against Russia. Only technical reasons finally caused him to send a part of the fleet to the North Sea.

This policy of not wishing to irrigate England even went so far as to prevent the canceling of leaves and furloughs and other trivial matters which would make the situation seem more serious.

Calls England's Attitude "Indefinite"

I cannot help but place part of the guilt for the war upon the British

Cabinet whose views at that time were made so indefinite that we did not know which way they would turn. A statement of what England would do probably would have prevented the war. If we take it for granted that the British Cabinet really desired peace and did not assertain the inward desire to allow

Bethmann-Hollweg to thrust his own head into the knotted noose, this omission of a definite expression of England's position by Grey becomes a mystery.

It is all the stranger in view of the fact that in 1911 in far less critical circumstances, Lloyd George had not hesitated to express an open threat.

When a private warning by Grey would have opened the eyes of Hollweg, his silence strengthened the British politicians who advocated reaching in blindly at all costs.

The British Ministers knew that Germany did not fully understand the importance of the situation. They also knew that Germany would not in any way turn a ques-

Ludendorff in Obscurity When War Began Because of His Extreme Preparedness Ideas

By GEN. ERICH LUDENDORFF.

LOVE of country, loyalty to the sovereign, appreciation of the truth that Germany stood everyone is to devote his life to his family and the state, these were the inherited principles which accompanied me into the world when I left my parents' roof.

My parents were not wealthy;

their long and faithful work had brought them no material reward. Our happy and harmonious family life was conducted on very economical and simple lines. Both my father and my mother sacrificed their all in providing for their children. I take this opportunity of thanking them before the whole world.

I had a hard struggle to make ends meet when I was a young officer, but my enjoyment of life

did not suffer on that account.

Much of my time was spent in my simple suburban apartments in

Wesel, Wilhelmshaven and Kiel,

reading works on history, military history and geography. I extended and developed the knowledge I had acquired as a boy.

I learned to be proud of my fatherland and its great men, and ardently worshipped at the shrine of Bismarck's powerful and passionate genius.

Gave Deep Devotion to Hohenzollern.

The work of our reigning house

for Prussia and Germany stood out in the clearest relief. The allegiance I had pledged on oath developed into a feeling of deep personal devotion. As I followed history step by step, I became more and more convinced that the safety of the country essentially depended on the army and navy. In view of the fact that Germany had again and again been the battlefield of Europe.

At the same time, my experience of life enabled me to appreciate and realize all that the fatherland had done and was doing in times of peace in the cause of culture and humanity.

My practical work for the army

began in 1904, when I was appointed to the Operations Department of the Great General Staff.

The culmination of my work there was the preparation for the millard mark bill ($250,000,000).

His Vision of Coming War.

In our unfavorable military-political position, in the center of Europe, surrounded by enemies,

we had to reckon with four greatly superior in numbers, and prepare ourselves accordingly, if we did not wish to allow ourselves to be crushed.

It was well known how Russia

pressed for war and continually increased her army. She was in-terent on humbling Austria-Hungary once and for all, and becoming mistress of the Balkans.

In France, the thought of revenge had revived with renewed vigor;

the old German Reichsland was to become French again. Among many other events in France, the reinstatement of the three years'

compulsory service left no doubt of that country's intentions.

England contemplated our eco-

nomie ascendancy, our cheap

labor and our restless industry with distinct uneasiness. Moreover,

Germany was the greatest land

power in Europe, and, at the same time she had a good fleet in course of expansion. This was what made

England fear for her world hegemony. The Anglo-Saxon felt his ancient supremacy threatened.

The English Government concentrated its fleet, which had had its base of operations until recently in the Mediterranean, in the North Sea and English Channel.

Lloyd George's menacing speech on July 21, 1911, threw a vivid and sudden light on England's intentions, which had hitherto been concealed with great skill. It became increasingly certain that a war would be forced upon us, and that it would be a struggle the world would not have been avoided. I consider this point of view erroneous. As I already stated in 1904, every occasion which could give our enemies a pretext for war against us should be avoided because through war we could not get at England, and consequently would not be able to save our overseas

trade.

The cutting off of this main artery became in 1918 one of the chief factors in losing the war for us.

Above all, we could not protect our trade by a victory over France alone.

As long as matters stood as it was madness to give our enemies a pretext to fight.

If in 1914 we had succeeded in warding off the crisis, and so gained

another two years for the growth of the fleet, then England's love of peace might have reached the deciding point.

I cannot get over the terrible fact that a somewhat more cautious policy in 1914 might have assured our economic position, already almost

Fashion Offers Wide Variety of Models.

By JANE WYNNE.

THERE seems to be a wide diversity of opinion among the smartly dressed women of New York just now as to what the silhouette for the coming season will be. The combination of distinctly American-made clothes and typical French models which are being brought over by those just returning from Paris is rather bewildering and at the same time affords a wide range of choice for the woman who has taken place during the past few weeks every sort of style may be seen.

Of course the devotees of French models are returning to their old loves now that the war does not interfere, and this is not strange. In spite of the attractive American designs, for the Parisian style of the present season is indeed youthful and many of the fashionable matrons favor it for this reason. With smart low shoes and stockings and a frock from 10 to 12 inches from the floor, one is bound to look considerably younger than in the long narrow skirt advocated by our own designers. So those who went abroad early in the summer when the straight silhouette was at the height of its popularity, have returned with frocks that lead one to believe they have partaken of the fountain of youth.

In the meantime the American designers have changed their ideas a bit, causing a considerable modification of the models seen two or three months ago. Now we have the assortment, including the typical French barrel shaped gown, the new designs of our own designers, which are indeed delightful, and the straight gown, tight at the ankles, for there are those who anticipated the season and selected their fall wardrobe early.

The tailored costume is becoming even more popular than ever. The ever increasing demand for the smart tailored suit or dress is partly explained by the fact that so many women in war work found such a costume so convenient that they are wearing them on practically all occasions. A very attractive shop was opened on Fifth avenue last week devoted exclusively to the "Tailored Woman."

Mrs. George E. Kent and her daughter, Miss Katherine Kent, were seen the other day on a shopping tour. Miss Kent wore a smart tailored gown of blue cloth with pipings of velvet and an odd-shaped black velvet hat, with a large novelty hatpin in the hair. The only relief for the sombre costume, Mrs. Kent wore a suit of black cloth with a hat to match.

An interesting visitor last week was Mrs. Jerome Bonaparte of Washington, who was stopping at the Chatham for several days. Mrs.

Bonaparte is one of the best dressed women of Washington and here her gowns are always studied with interest. She appeared at luncheon one day during her visit in Paris wearing a gown of dull green tulle of simple design and hung quite short. Her hat was of French blue cocotte feathers and her only ornament was an Oriental necklace of odd design in old blue and silver. Mrs. William J. Sturgis was seen in a smart gown of black satin, unrelieved except for a string of beads, and a large black hat.

There is a growing interest in lace. The wedding gown without its exquisite lace is not at all au fait and many of them are made entirely of lace. The heavy handmade laces are most popular. There is much interest in the forthcoming exhibit at the Museum of Natural History, where the history of lace will be given chief attention. Lace making is becoming quite a fad here now and many of the smart women who knitted during the war have become so fond of doing such work with their hands that they have turned their attention to lace making.

As a Woman Thinketh

By Helen Rowland.

I HAVE LOST HIM—

My Perfect Good Husband!

It isn't as though he had "passed on" to a Better World. For then, there would be no more of him. He is still here, in Heaven, and the insurance—and all that!

(To say nothing of the consoling knowledge that I look "interesting" in black.)

It isn't as though I had divorced him. For then, there would be the alimony. And all the excitement and suspense—and the simply WONDERFUL Nevada climate!

It isn't even as though another woman had "lured" him from me. Because a husband that can be "lured away" isn't worth the rope with which he has to be tied.

And the woman who "lures" him is sometimes a delivering angel, in disguise.

But this—THIS is different! And I miss him so!

I miss the long, quiet, inspiring evenings, when he used to read to me from Bernard Shaw or Walt Whitman.

Sometimes I catch a fleeting glimpse of him, as he slips in, after dusk, with just enough strength to plunge wearily into bed.

Or again, when he wakes up, at the last moment in the morning, with barely time to drop into his clothes, gulp down a cup of coffee, and rush past me with a peck on the cheek and a muttered "G'bye."

Sometimes, on rainy days, I hear him moving restlessly about in his room—and swearing softly.

But it is like living with a disembodied spirit!

Ah me! If he had only gone to France, or Russia, or the Klondike—or even Paradise—I might have hoped, some day, to have him back again.

But WHAT hope is there for a wife like me! Don't try to console me, by telling me that it is almost winter, and the wind and the snow and the frost will soon drive him back to his fireside, again!

What joy is there in having a husband's material body around the house, when his spiritual self is roaming the fields, in the wake of a silly, little, white ball—

Twenty miles away! What hope is there for ME? My Husband—HAS JOINED A GOLF CLUB!

The River of Silver and Green—Part III.

WHEN the witch reached the water she did not stop, for the little white men were close upon her with their white sticks still pointed at her. Into the water went the witch, and after her the broomstick, and down they went in the middle of the stream.

The little Princess gave a cry of alarm, for she was sure the witch would drown, and even if she were a bad witch she did not wish anything so dreadful to happen to her. In an instant, however, there appeared in the place where the witch and the broomstick disappeared a great rock and on it a tree with all its branches growing up close like a huge bush.

The little men came back when this happened. Bowing to the witch, they disappeared as quietly and as quickly as they came and the Princess found herself alone again in front of the locked door of the Palace of Gold.

But who should she see on the ground where the old witch had stood but the little gold key she had found under the stone in the cave. The witch had dropped it in her alarm at seeing the little white men.

The Princess knew at once it must unlock the door to the Palace of Gold, so she ran and picked it up and quickly put it in the keyhole of the door, which opened at once and the Princess stepped inside.

This time, you may be sure, she took the little gold key with her, and when she saw at the end of the hall another door she knew it could be opened with the key she carried. But when she opened the door she did not enter at first, for on a couch of white velvet, trimmed with gold fringe, lay a strange-looking youth.

He was all white, just like the little white men, only he was tall and not a dwarf like the little men. The room was hung in white silk and the floor was covered with white fur. The youth was asleep, so the Princess tiptoed in to make sure there was no other door to be unlocked before she awoke the sleeping boy.

But she had only gone a little way into the room, when up from the couch she saw the white man, the little white men, still with their fingers on their lips and surrounded the white youth.

Gently they all touched him with their little finger and the youth opened his eyes and sat up on the couch, and when he saw the Princess he smiled.

The little white men pointed at the Princess and bowed, and turning to the white man one of them for the first time, spoke.

"The spell is broken," he said. "The witch is not more; there is the key which unlocks the door where the magic power is kept. You are free, farewell!"

The other little white men had disappeared now and only the spokesman remained. He had pointed to the key the Princess still carried in her hand when he told the white man he was free, and now he told her to open a tiny door which he showed her in the wall as he drew aside a silk hanging.

When the door was opened the Princess saw a goblet standing inside, and beside it stood a crystal bottle filled with a white liquid.

In the goblet was a white, sparkling powder, and over this the little white man told her to pour the liquid and give it to the white youth to drink.

No sooner had he swallowed it than the white youth became a handsome, dark-eyed youth with black hair.

The little man bowed before the youth and the Princess and led them out of the palace and down the steps to the water, where a boat of white and gold was waiting, and they sailed away.

Tomorrow I will finish telling you about the Princess and the youth she found in the Palace of Gold.

The Curious Quest

By E. Phillips Oppenheim.

CHAPTER V (Continued).

Bliss closed his desk and took a taxi down to the city. There was a new smile upon his face, a new sense of pleasure in his pulse, a new alacrity in his manner as he entered the dingy little warehouse. Mr. Masters, at the sound of the opening door, jumped up from his seat and looked anxiously out of the office window. Miss Clayton, after her first hopeful glance, stared at his attire in amazement. Bliss gave them no time to ask questions.

"I want you both to come along with me," he exclaimed. "I have a taxicab waiting."

Mr. Masters clapped on his hat and made for the door, his coat tails flying behind him. Frances followed only for a moment to arrange her hat before a looking glass. They drove up West and all the time they bombarded him with questions. Bliss, however, was like a child with a surprise in store.

"Just a little idea of mine," he kept on repeating. "Kind of 'last hope' affair. It's coming off, trumps, too!"

"Have you sold any stories?" Frances asked, with practical directness.

"You'll know all about it in a minute or two," he promised. "They descended in Regent street. Bliss paid for the taxi out of his right-hand trousers pocket. He then pushed the door open and stepped into the room. He was speechless. It seemed as though he were being told for the first time in his life that the Alpha cooking stove was the best in the world.

"Come inside," Bliss directed, "and I'll tell you all about it."

They pushed their way in. Bliss made Frances sit in his chair. Mr. Masters was standing with his mouth still open, and his legs wide apart, his eyes glued upon the stove and the two perspiring cooks.

"Nothing like it in these days. They are talking about the Alpha Cooking Stove all over London. Some of the papers are going to give us a free ad. Elgerman's man has been here, and he has placed an order for 100 and thirteen and a half prompt cash, and they want a contract for a thousand. Here's the order, look at it!"

"But where on earth," Mr. Masters demanded at last, as he held the slip of paper between his shaking fingers, "did you get the coin from to run a show like this? I've had some such thought in my mind for ages, but I could never get hold of the money."

"I borrowed it from a silly ass I know who has more money than is good for him," Bliss answered. "I borrowed five hundred. Here is the balance."

He emptied the contents of his right-hand trousers pocket, a handful of notes and gold, into Mr. Masters' hand.

"You'll have to repay him the amount and the interest," Bliss continued. "But he's in no hurry for it, and he'll send you the bill. By-the-by, allow me!"

He took £2 from the heap of money and thrust it into his pocket. "My tomorrow's salary," he explained. "I'm a trifle short. Here's Elgerman's man. He's brought his balancing direct along with him. Good luck, and good-by!"

Mr. Masters looked more astonished than ever. Frances, who had been listening, rose quickly to her feet. He turned to both of them. There were tears almost in his eyes. "You'll stay as my partner, you young idiot!" Mr. Masters thundered. "Go, indeed! What do you think I'm made of? You've saved me from ruin. God bless you!"

Bliss was conscious of a curious and almost exhilarating sense of pleasure. It was an absolutely new and extremely pleasant sensation. He held out one hand to Mr. Masters and one to the girl. She, also, was looking at him appealingly.

"You won't really leave us?" she begged. "Please don't."

"It isn't my choice," he assured them earnestly. "It's just a hard necessity. It's part of a bargain I made and must keep; but I shan't forget—I shan't ever forget."

He wrenched his hand free. Mr. Masters turned after him. A portly gentleman, however, blocked the way.

"Mr. Masters, I believe? My name is Burrell, managing director of Elgerman's Limited. I should like to have a business talk with you about the stove."

Mr. Masters drew a long breath. He was only human, and fortune was knocking at his door.

"Take a seat, Mr. Burrell," he said. "Glad to meet you, sir."

Their heads grew close together as they talked, and Frances moved away toward the window. Headless of the crowds in front of the shop, she was gazing with dim eyes along the pavement. Bliss, with his old clothes in a brown paper parcel under his arm, a new dignity in his carriage, and two pounds and fourpence in his left-hand trousers pocket, was walking steadily away eastwards.

CHAPTER VI.

BLISS stood before the window of his attic, gazing down upon one of the busy streets in the neighborhood of St. Pancras. Behind him, his landlady was busy clearing away his meager breakfast. Below, the rain-soaked streets were thronged with an ever increasing stream of people and a tangled chaos of uninspiring-looking vehicles. A stunted row of smoke-blackened trees stood like dreary sentinels before a medley of dejected-looking tenement houses. The horizon was gray and murky. Perhaps, for the first time in his life Bliss realized the intense depression that comes from the contemplation of sheer ugliness.

"You'll excuse my reminding you, sir, but it's gone 8 o'clock."

Bliss turned suddenly round. His landlady was standing with the tray in her hands, preparing to leave the room. She was a small, thin woman. Her face was sharpened by the stress of many anxieties. Her gray hair was brushed uncomplaisingly back from her forehead. Nevertheless, there was kindness in her tone, kindness even in her bad eyes and tired mouth. She looked at her lodger as though she almost dreaded to hear his reply.

"No hurry for me this morning, Mrs. Heath," Bliss said. "I have had to leave that first job of mine." She sighed as she rested the tray for a moment on the edge of the table.

The Business of Home Making

Which is the Most Happy Baby?

By MRS. CHRISTINE FREDERICK.

THINK the idea which prompted this little article today, was a glimpse into several shops making a specialty of baby furnishings. Oh, the adorable pink booties, and the equally adorable blue carriage robes and the white lamb's wool coats and the celluloid rattles and brushes and set of baby toys and all the charming, fairy-like babbles manufactured for baby folk.

But, being a horribly common-sense person, the thought that came to me was, who, oh who, is going to wash and clean and care for all these things, and are they all really necessary anyway? Now I speak not as an authoritative old maid, but as the long-suffering, but happy mother of four young olive sprigs. And I speak also from recollections of a drawer full of pink combs and hair brushes and bibles—which have never been used. Since, I have at least a dozen beautifully embroidered bibs donated by unwisely loving friends, and a complete chest of too-good-to-throw-away things which I gently pass on (as occasion arises) to new mothers who thank me profusely.

But, are there really mothers who submit to all this tyranny of a babyhood as blue-printed by the manufacturer of baby articles? Yes, I regret to say there are. I know mothers who spend weeks of labor putting pin tucks into John's dresses—and John calmly chews up the pin-tucks and the rosettes and leads as happy a life as his foolish mother will permit.

Why not let babies be truly happy? Why surround their lives with wrappings of a civilization based on the crafty schemes of manufacturers or those who have evolved all these trappings of babyhood?

That baby or child is most truly happy, and also, the most healthy, in which tucks, bibs, and celluloid is most absent. All that such fuss and feathers of babyhood do, is to complicate the work of bringing up babies to the young mother who know is handicapped by a servant shortage and the H. C. of everything at her elbow. And I believe another and a sadder result is, that, so many young couples have now come to believe that all these things and toys and entourage are so necessary to a baby, that look and say "we can't afford a baby at all, at all."

Which would be the better view to take—that we can all of us have babies and still be well and happy, and the babies also, without such trappings, or that, if such trappings are necessary, then we just can't afford babies. I know that so many mothers have come to feel that every blessed baby needs an embroidered carriage robe, and a large pink (or blue) bow of limousine ribbon on it, that they can't seem to feel that any baby can have casts and yet forgo those ribbons. We have, and are still unnecessarily lifting up and making more demanding the whole pomp and circumstance of having babies. And that is, indeed, a sad state. We now regard it as almost "poor" not to have white painted carriage cabs in the English style, and the coverlets and the tucks and the pink sets which we never use. And there we are.

I have looked into the matter, and I do not see that Lincoln, or Pershing, or Andrew Carnegie or any of our greatest and distinguished men had embroidered bibs and tucks in their babyhoods, which fact does not seem to have stood either in the way of their fame or wealth.

Are we not trying to give our babies too much, too artificial and unnecessary a setting? I think we are. These are the happiest babies which wear plain, serviceable clothes, and whose entourage is strictly practical. I think mothers indulge in this baby clothes craze, not for the sake of the babies, but to indulge themselves and their psychology in a pink and blue aesthetic delight. But they make the way and work harder for themselves—wellnigh impossible for the middle class young mother. I am for babies now and all the time, but babies without fripperies, who do not add to the labor and washing and cleaning and handling of a thousand useless objects.

Rain Boosts Waning Hopes of Sox; Williams to Oppose Ruether in 5th Game Today

Postponement Gives Gleason's Staff Much Needed Chance to Recupate—Gleason Now Will Have Kerr and Cicotte Ready to Take Turn on Hill.

By John E. Wray.

Sporting Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—"Kid" Gleason, grizzled manager of the White Sox, pretended last night that he was sorry the rain had held up the playing of the fifth world's series game between the Chicago and Cincinnati clubs. Everybody else in Chicago, however, appeared to feel as if the pyramids had been lifted off their chests, particularly those who had mortgaged the family Ford and risked the proceeds on the chances of the Comiskey men.

Just how the "Kid" figured the rain could help the Reds he did not explain; but the opposite view can be accounted for quite readily. In fact, there was every reason why the downpour should have dampened the spirits of the Reds and not of the pale hoed athletes.

The day's delay placed the Sox pitching staff in a much better situation than it has been at any time since Cicotte exploded in the very first encounter of the title clash. As matters now stand, Williams, Kerr and Cicotte are in the best of health. Gleason that they can win, if their teammates can but give them the runs. They have all three appeared to better pitching advantage in the last three struggles than their Red opponents. That they failed to win more than one victory was due to the little breaks that make baseball as uncertain as the promises of an oil lease salesman.

Kerr Proves His Worth. The Chicago pitching situation today differs from that existing at the start of the series in that Manager Gleason now owns a proven "ace" in Kerr, who was something of an uncertainty before the title contests began.

In view of the aid the one day lay-off gave his staff, in making it possible for the "Kid" to unlimber Cicotte in a third effort against the Reds, the need of a manager who ought to be highly pleased at the lay-off. He will unquestionably be wholly entranced, if it rains after the game No. 7, provided his staff is still in the running, then. The second day would give him a chance to come back with Williams for a third attempt and with Kerr, if the ninth game were needed.

The Sox players are apparently not seriously disheartened at losing two

Billiken Eleven To Perform Today Against Alumni

Blue and White Machine, Rushed Into Shape in a Week, Opens Season Saturday.

Coach Charles Rademacher will have an opportunity to see today just what were the results of one week of concentrated football practice at Sportsman's Park, the gridiron home of St. Louis University.

The Billiken forces straggled together just one week ago, delaying the scheduled opening of the practice season about 10 days. Since that time Rademacher has had to lengthen the daily workouts and eliminate some of the usual training stunts in order to have his eleven ready for the opening game against the Cape Girardeau Normals, Saturday afternoon.

Today the blue and white forces will be sent against a strong St. Louis U. alumni team, made up of stars graduated in recent years. Two famous Billiken quarterbacks, Johnnie Maguire and Jack Connor, will lead the service to play. Chris Zachritz, the "ace" of Johnny Bender's backfield in 1913-14, and Manning, who helped to defeat Washington in 1917, will form a part of the "grade" offense.

Coaches to Oppose Varsity. Coach Rademacher will be stationed at right guard, the position which he played on the University of Chicago team, while Dan Savage, the St. Louis U. High School coach, will resume his old duties at a tackle.

The game is to be started at 4 p. m., and consequently the coach asks all alumni players who have volunteered their services to report at 3 o'clock in order to be outfitted early.

The lineups will be as follows:

Light Drill for Pitchers. The St. Louis University gridiron squad probably will be let off with a light drill today, following Saturday's one-hour battle with the freshmen. Coach Rademacher, Berger and Whitley are still on the shelf, and Rutherford returned from Columbia yesterday, where they watched Johnny Miller's Tigers claw their way to the championship.

Rutherford and Connelman returned from Columbia yesterday, where they watched Johnny Miller's Tigers claw their way to the championship. The score by no means indicates that the Panthers have an invulnerable defense, but, on the other hand, shows that the "regs" had a fairly good attack, when it is considered that three of the main backs were not in the game.

However, there is this to admit—the linemen have not a punch in their offensive. They do not open holes as a unit, and seem to lack that spark which distinguishes winning lines from less successful ones.

It seems that one or two old "grads" might help by lending a little individual instruction to the big corps of forwards. To handle a varsity football squad 25 strong is a job that even the most courageous man would shrink from.

St. Paul on Way West. SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 6.—The St. Paul club, champions of the American Association, played a line of semi-professionals in Salt Lake yesterday and won, 14 to 1. The Saints left for Los Angeles last night, where on Wednesday they will meet the Vernon club, winners of the Pacific Coast League in the first game of the interleague series.

Brady and Bowden Win. SCARBOROUGH-ON-THE-HUDSON, N. Y., Oct. 6.—Mike Brady, runner-up in the national open golf championship, and Gregory Bowden of Boston were defeated by A. J. Sanderson, home professional, and James West of Rockaway, by one up in an exhibition four-ball match on the links of the Sleepy Hollow Country Club yesterday. Brady took 71 strokes, Sanderson 72, West 66 and Bowden 78.

Auto Race Postponed. CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 6.—The $20,000 world series automobile race, stakes race scheduled for the Cincinnati Speedway yesterday was postponed until next Saturday at 1 p. m. on account of rain.

Tidd Wins Cycle Race. Robert E. Tidd, with a seven-minute handicap, won the annual 14-mile cycle race of the St. Louis Cycling Club held yesterday. He completed the distance in 43m. 10s. Harry D. Vries, scratch man in the race, was second, W. C. Martin, with a handicap of five minutes, finished fifth. The time prize went to De Vries, he finishing ahead of Freeman, when the latter took two spills.

RECORD SCORES MADE. What may be record scores for the 1919 season were included in last Saturday's football result. Playing in a game of mud, the heavy University of Oklahoma eleven defeated Kingfisher College, 187 to 0. The Sooners scored a touchdown every two-and-one-half minutes of play.

At Little Rock, Ark., the high school of that city defeated Russellville High School, 17 to 0.

Rain, Gents, Puts Me on Par With Guy Who Told Caesar About the Idears of March

And Now, Looking Over Situation Caused by Downpour, and After Careful Study of Pitchers, I Find It Will Have Absolutely No Effect, Writes Lardner.

By Ring W. Lardner.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Gents—Well, Gents, I guess there experts who have been sniggering in their sleeve at me because maybe once in a while I make a little mistake about who is going to win a ball game or something will do their laughing on the other flat. After the little trick I showed them Saturday when I come right out in print and said yesterday's game would be postponed on account of rain.

The prediction is all the more wonderful when you set down and figure out that this is the first Sunday it ever rained in old Chi when they was a ball game scheduled at Comiskey park. So me coming out and saying it would rain today puts me on a par with that old guy in Rome that told Caesar he was going to croke on the idears of March, and sure enough he did, and it was first time in his life that he ever done it in that month or any other month in the calendar, you might say.

Now, take the Cincinnati staff, and a man stumbles onto some startling facts. On a rainy day in the regular season Slim Salles generally most always goes to the races, and the way he feels the next day depends on who win. Well, they wasn't no races here yesterday, and I guess neither one, so I haven't no idear if Sal will be sunny and gay or morose.

As for Dutch Ruether they was a day last summer when the Reds was supposed to play here, but they was a regt of Chi soldiers going to be welcomed home that same day so of course it poured rain and I was wading along, Clark and me, Dutch and he was wearing a raincoat so the Red fans needn't have no fear that he will come down with a heavy cold.

I never seen Jimmy Ring after a rainstorm but if he is like the rest of the Rings he will probably look like he ought to get his clothes pressed. Personally I never carry a bumbarshoot and always look worse than usual when I come in out of the wet and when I look had I get mad and bark like a dog.

The one who is libel to be the most surprised is Lurge as they tell me it never rains in Cuba. Eller, Fisher, Mitchell and Germaine are all got natured boys that don't allow a little thing like a rain to ruffle them up.

Absolutely No Effect. So all in all it looks like the rainy day would have absolutely no effect on either club and it only remains to be seen how the umpires will take it. It will probably make them all the more anxious to get the serious over in a hurry and they will begin calling everybody out.

The game was called off about 11 bells yesterday a. m., after a consultation between Mrs. Gleason and Moran, which run something like as follows:

Moran—"Hello, is this you, Bill? They tell me the grounds are too wet to play on them."

Gleason—"Well, the outfield is pretty wet, but we had the infield covered and we could play the game on that."

Moran—"Oh, no, we won't, for Happy and Lucky Felsch might get an extra base hit."

Gleason—"Well, good by, old pal."

Moran—"Good luck, old chum." (Copyright, 1919, by the Bell Syndicate.)

The challenge was learned last night. The challenge specifically names the Shamrock IV, owned by Sir Thomas Lipton as its representative.

Scullin Eleven And Innisfails Win Soccer Tilts

Former Defeats Screw Co. 3-1, While Latter Downs Millers by Same Score.

The Scullins, last season's champions, and the Innisfails, who finished in second place, were the winners in the opening games of the St. Louis Soccer League played at Cardinal Field yesterday. The former defeated the St. Louis Screw Co. 3-1, while the latter gained victory over the Ben Millers by the same count. About 2500 spectators turned out for the battles.

While many new players appeared in the lineups of the teams, several of the veterans, who last season were in Uncle Sam's service and who are expected back this year, did not get into the game. Among these were "Bull" Brannigan, Gert Kehrman and several others. However, many youngsters were trotted out and several of them made a favorable impression.

The first half of the Innisfail-Miller game was hard fought, with neither eleven being able to score. The Millers had a slight edge, but were unable to past Dave Bartlett for a score. In the closing period the Irishmen started with a rush and put through the first marker, with Mitchell shooting. Rube Fote tied it for the men of Ratican, but Mickey Frindale, last year a star in the Municipal League, came back with two, which netted the Irishmen victory.

In the closing game Andy Hack, Screw Co. fullback, scored the first goal for the Scullins, while in trying to clear a shot he sent it through his own uprights. The next marker for the Bradymen came when Murphy headed the sphere through the goal, receiving a corner kick from Mulvey. Ally Schwarz scored the final goal, while Corrigan counted for the Screw Co.

HERRON AND PEACOCK ARE BEATEN IN GOLF MATCH. HARTSDALE, N. Y., Oct. 6.—S. Davidson Herron, national amateur golf champion, coupled with Grant Peacock of Princeton, lost a four-ball exhibition match by one up on the eighteenth green to Tom McNamara, former metropolitan title holder, and Jack Dowling, the home pro, on the links of the Seaside Golf and Country Club yesterday. Herron impressed the gallery by the length of his drives. Herron, Peacock and Dowling each made the round in 72, while McNamara needed two strokes more.

24-HOUR TRUCE CALLED IN STABLE BOYS' STRIKE. PARIS, Sunday, Oct. 6.—Efforts to reach a settlement of the strike of stable boys at race track near Paris have failed, with an obstacle after the terms were arranged. At today's race meeting at Longchamp, Paris, the strike of the Municipal Council handcarriers with Frank Jay Gould's Delta second, W. K. Vanderbilt, whose stables have not been affected by the strike, did not have any horses placed in the race.

24-HOUR TRUCE CALLED IN STABLE BOYS' STRIKE. PARIS, Sunday, Oct. 6.—Efforts to reach a settlement of the strike of stable boys at race track near Paris have failed, with an obstacle after the terms were arranged. Four trainers refused to re-engage strikers but a 24-hour truce has been agreed to so that the public might not be disappointed.

At today's race meeting at Longchamp, Paris, the strike of the Municipal Council handcarriers with Frank Jay Gould's Delta second, W. K. Vanderbilt, whose stables have not been affected by the strike, did not have any horses placed in the race.

Asher and Mason Meet in Feature S. B. A. C. Contest

Bantamweights Are Scheduled to Go Eight Rounds—Two Other Bouts Carded.

Johnny "Babe" Asher, St. Louis' only ring champion (he won the A. E. F. bantamweight championship) will face a real test at the South Broadway A. C. tonight, when he battles Frankie Mason of Fort Wayne, Ind. The contest is scheduled to go eight rounds. Two other bouts are scheduled.

Asher, in his first local appearance following his discharge from the service, made a favorable impression when he was the winner over Bobby Hughes of New Orleans in eight rounds. Asher's jumping jack tactics proved too much for the Southerner.

In Mason, Asher is meeting one of the best boys in the bantam division. Mason has met all of the leaders and has always given a good account of himself. The contest tonight will mark Mason's fourth appearance in a local ring.

Mason Won From Kid Regan. In 1917 Mason all but murdered Kid Regan, while Regan evened up the count by shading the Fort Wayne lad that following year. This year Mason has fought such notables as Pat Moore, Johnny Ertle, Earl Puryear, Bobby Hughes and Joe Lynch. The clash with Lynch went 12 rounds and was boxed Sept. 19. On March 11 Mason shaded Pat Moore.

Mason arrived here yesterday and went through a brisk workout at the South Broadway. Asher is in shape and confident of gaining the victory. A pair of slugs, Sallor Jerebek and Ora Dean, will mix in the eight-round semi-final at 145 pounds. Both of these boys pack a knockout punch, while Jerebek is a bit cleverer than his rival. Young Dundee and Johnny Lucas, 126-pounders, will furnish the preliminary.

Walter Heisler will referee.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

WOMAN'S WAY.

Now women physicians have joined with men doctors in warning women against tight lacing, high heels and late hours.—News Item.

When her doctor declares, with a glance at her gown
That her ribs are too rigidly bodiced,
And adds, as he gives her the swift up and down,
That the cut of her skirt is immodest,
She'll calmly continue to dress in the style,
Disdain written large on her features,
And say with a lofty and pitying smile:
"These men are the silliest creatures!"

When her doctor informs her the collar she wears
Will quickly destroy her digestion,
That exposing her neck to the midwinter airs
Will ruin her health beyond question,
When he tells her the heels on her shop-going shoes
Her spine will eventually sever,
She says with a smile and a couple of poohs:
"These men; they know nothing whatever!"

When her doctor announces that dancing too much
Will make her both old and rheumatic,
When he warns against parties, late hours and such
In language extremely emphatic,
When he speaks of the wrinkles that soon will appear
If she loses her sleep, on her forehead,
She murmurs to Gladys: "It's dreadful, my dear:
These men are so perfectly horrid!"

But when she is told by a woman M. D.
With sisterly words of compassion
Just where, very soon, she is certain to be
If she still stays a slave to the fashion,
And how she will weaken her body and mind Past recall, if she can't be induced to Abandon the frivolous ways of her kind, She'll behave just the same as she used to!

His Idea.
"I hear that old Grabball is going to run for Senator," said Smith. "Last time he ran he was defeated because of his views on the currency question."
"What was his idea of an ideal currency system?" asked Jones.
"One that would enable a man to get $6 in change for a $5 bill," replied Smith.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

How He Saved Money.
Mr. Bear: "Do you find telephoning expensive?"
Mr. Lamb: "Sometimes; but I saved money by it today."
"How? Didn't you use it?"
"Oh, yes. I called up my broker four times, but the 'voice with a smile' told me the line was busy every time."—Yonkers Statesman.
